FOURTEEN MEN IN AUTOMBILES KIDNAP GIRL AT WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. DRAG HER FROM BED WHERE SHE WAS IN HIDING

Leader of Gang Declares She is His Wife But Litlte Is Known at White Plains About Her. Fight for Girl Develops Into a Hot Battle With One Woman Wounded on the Head.

GANG ARRIVED JUST AFTER MIDNIGHT

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Feb. 7—Fourteen armed men abducted Miss Anna King at midnight after engaging in a gun battle in which one woman was wounded.

Miss King, who was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Albhons, was dragged from her bed by the men. The whole party escaped in two automobiles. One member of the gang was a woman.

The leader of the gang told Albhons that Miss King was his wife. No trace of the kidnappers had been found up to noon. The attack on the Albhons house evidently was carefully planned as the telephone wires were cut. Fourteen men alighted from cars in front of the house at midnight and began pounding on the front door. The leader, when Albhons opened the door, yelled at him to surrender "my wife Miss King." Albhons tried to call for help but found the telephone dead.

There was a smashing of glass and two windows were broken through which the band entered. Albhons' son fired on the gang. This was the signal for a general fusillade in which Albhon's daughter was slightly wounded. A bullet grazed her forehead. The men evidently knew the house as they went straight to Miss King's room. The door was locked but they battered it down. The girl was huddled in bed as they dragged her out. The party escaped in two automobiles before the neighbors could be aroused.

The girl is believed to be kept in hiding in the Bronx where the Albhons and Miss King formerly lived.

FORMER RESIDENT OF BRADFORD TWP. DIED SATURDAY

The venerable John C. Cowder, who has been ill since the middle of last November, died at 5 o'clock Saturday morning at his residence in Philipsburg. Had he lived another ten days he would have rounded out his eightieth year, having been born on February 15, 1841.

Funeral services will be held at the Cowder residence on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. His life-long friend, the Rev. B. J. Hummel, of Clearfield, will preach the sermon, the Rev. J. H. Bridigum, pastor of the United Brethren church, Philipsburg, assisting him with the service.

He was united in marriage to Marian Kidder, also a native of Lancaster, the ceremony taking place at Tyrone 53 years ago this month. The couple located in Bradford township, Clearfield county, where Mr. Cowder successfully followed farming for a number of years. Having become a member of the United Brethren church while yet in his teens he has been throughout his live actively interested in church work. He personally solicited much of the money needed to build the church at Shiloh in which he served as trustee while residing in that community. He was elected to various positions of trust in Bradford township, serving as tax collector and school director. He was a strong supporter of the public schools, manifesting a keen interest in their progress and welfare.

About 30 years ago Mr Cowder and family moved to Philipsburg, occupying the house in which they are now living. Mr. Cowder accepted employment with the late George Herman, grocer, working for him about 15 years. Most of the time since then he has lived retired. He was a trustee of the Philipsburg United Brethren church, and took part in the church activities.

Besides his aged wife he is survived by these children: Harry F, of Clearfield; Alice, wife of Herbert Graffius, Philipsburg; Margaret, wife of Roy Flegal, Philipsburg, and Robert M., Portage. PENROSE PROMISES BONUS TO SOLDIERS AID ON BILL GIVING

Washington, Feb. 7.—Senator Penrose, chairman of the senate finance committee, assured a committee of the American Legion which called on him Saturday he would make every effort to bring the soldiers' bonus bill to a vote in the senate at the present session.

The plan is to put through the house bill with the exception of the taxation provision raising the money to pay the cash bonus. This feature according to Senator Penrose, is to be left over for consideration at the next session along with other revenue legislation.

Members of the committee calling on Senator Penrose were F. W Galbraith, of Cincinnati, national commander of the American Legion Gilbert W. Bettman, of Cleveland John Thomas Taylor, of Philadelphia and S. W. Chadborn, of Massachusetts. The officers of the legion are in Washington for a conference beginning today, and they wanted to get some light on the intentions of the finance committee.

"I told them," said Senator Penrose, "the country was in a very bad financial condition and hardly able to meet its requirements, and that revenue would unquestionably fall off to a very marked degree during the next fiscal year.

"'At the same time I conceded it was the duty of the government to provide revenue for this patriotic purpose and that an added tax be levied, if necessary. I told them if time permitted I would favor imposing these taxes at this session, but it is obvious this is impossible. Attention was called to the way Congress was not going to complete its work, but that a continuous session virtually would be held. Hence, at an early date in the new session, such additional revenue by taxation would be provided.

"I was gratified to note what I had never before doubted, the men were in a reasonable frame of mind and avowedly did not want to insist on any course which might be against the best interests of the country."

DUBLIN NERVOUSLY EXPECTS SINN FEIN BATTLE TO BREAK IN CITY THIS WEEK

DUBLIN, February 7—Major Sinn Fein attacks against British forces in Dublin are expected this week. Assuming the aggressive in this region last week the Sinn Fein precipitated battles in which 14 lost their lives and at least 16 persons were wounded. Sinn Fein leaders are determined to force Great Britain into putting into effect martial law over the city believing it will help their case politically. British representatives declare they welcome Sinn Fein activities as they bring the conflict to a head making certain it will terminate more quickly. A new form of reprisals was adopted by the British when they rounded up all men of military age in Queenstown, tolled them all into squads and assigned them numbers and dates. The decision was that each squad would be responsible for information regarding any Sinn Fein attack on the Crown forces in that region on the date assigned to them. Punishment for failure to obey the order was not announced but it was hinted that property reprisals would follow.

COAL TAX THOT CERTAIN

HARRISBURG, February 7—The legislature today started into its fifth week with a calendar of 400 bills for consideration. Only one has been finally acted on. It was the State Highway bond bill passed by the senat last week. The house has 275 bills now in the hands of committees and the senate will act on 125, that have appeared during the month.

The calendar in the house tonight is more crowded than it has been thus far in the session. Both Governor Sproul and committee members have taken a hand in reducing the amount of state deficiencies.

Two bills were reported out by the fisheries committee and will be heard in first reading tonight. The American Legion Armistice Day bill will also be heard for a first reading. It was reported out as committed. Committees scheduled to report bills for the calendar this week failed to act were those of Public Health and Sanitation, Centennial Affairs and Manufactures.

First reading on three highway bills will be held tonight as committed from the committee on Public Roads. The committees that have had the bulge of legislative business during the month past are those of Appropriations, Judiciary and Special, Fish and Game, Banks and Banking, Manufactures, Centennial Affairs, Public Roads, Health and Sanitation, Printing and Ways and Means.

Action will also be taken this week on the resolution of Representative Glass, of Philadelphia, for an investigation of the anthracite coal industry for the purpose of learning the cause for the prevailing high price of that kind of coal. The status of the resolution at present is somewhat changed from its original intention. Glass stated at the time the resolution was

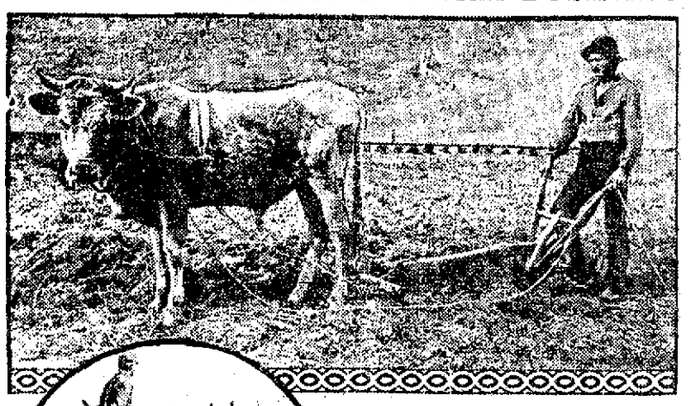
SEVERAL ESSENTIAL FACTORS OF MUCH WEIGHT IN FARM BUSINESS



Many farmers realize but meager incomes because their business is small. Such men often feel that their farm business is sufficiently large to keep them busy the entire year, when, as a matter of fact, the actual results accomplished represent less than a half year's work, say farm management specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. A large volume of business may be done on a farm of few acres, while only a small business may be conducted on a poorly managed farm of much larger acreage. Without reasonable size of business there is little opportunity for a satisfactory profit in farming.

The Essential Factors.

There are a number of factors which materially affect success in the organization and management of farms. Some are of greater importance than others, some may be disregarded without serious consequences; but as a rule the profits derived from farming depend very largely upon the extent to which certain essential features of organization and management have been adopted and adhered to, say farm management specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Assuming a type of farming adapted to soil, climatic, and labor conditions, and especially to local conditions with reference to markets and market facilities, success is generally dependent upon four important factors: Size of business, yield of crops, returns from live stock, and efficiency of labor.

Many other factors have their influence and must not be overlooked on a given farm. For instance, the wise expenditure of capital is very important. Again, in obtaining a good return from live stock the efficiency in feeding is very important. Farm management studies show, however, that the farmer whose business is efficient in the four factors outlined is usually successful. The farms that excel in none of these respects usually fail. Those deficient in one or two may succeed, but their chances of success are greatly lessened.

In comparing farms with respect to volume of business some of the more important factors to be considered are size of farm, acres in crops, the amount of live stock carried, the amount of capital invested, and amount of labor required in operating the farm. On farms where one enterprise predominates such as a specialized cotton, fruit, or dairy farm, the best measure of size of business may be the acres in cotton, acres in fruit, or number of cows. The amount of labor required in operating the farm may be used to good advantage in comparing farms of different types. Twenty acres of truck crops may, under suitable conditions, equal 200 acres of grain, hay and general live stock, both as to labor required and income received.

Crop yields greatly influence farm profits. Some farmers make fair profits with low yields because some other phase of the farm business is sufficiently developed to offset the poor yields, but it is doubtless true that these same farmers could make more money with higher yields. Profits increase at least until yields are obtained considerably above the average for the region, but beyond this limit very high yields are liable to be obtained at the expense of farm profits.

Quality of Live Stock Important.

On farms where live stock is an important enterprise, the quality of the stock is very important. On a majority of farms, except in the South and certain of the Western states, more of the crops are fed to live stock than are sold direct. On many farms the animals are the market for the crops, hence the production of these is a most important factor in farm profits. The best of corn and hay crops will count for little when fed to animals that make returns below the market prices for these crops. On the other hand, good live stock on the individual farms may not be profitable if not fed and cared for economically.

The exceedingly diverse nature of farm operations makes wide opportunity for inefficiency to enter into their performance. In a factory with modern machinery a man is expected to do a certain amount of work, and in many instances the machine sets the pace for him. Generally the worker on the farm must be his own boss and must set his own pace. He must also work under most adverse weather conditions at certain times. Often a great deal of work must be devoted to things which add little or nothing to the profits of the business. It requires twice as much time for some men as compared with others to do a certain kind of work. Work may also be so organized that a given amount of effort accomplishes more than the average. The efficient use of horse labor is also very important and bears a close relation to size of business. On the one-man farm the horses must necessarily be unemployed every time the farmer finds it necessary to do work not requiring horse labor. On the larger farms the work can be so arranged as to have one man keep the horses busy while others attend to the work where horse labor is not needed.

Inefficiency and Efficiency—Extreme Types but True Ones.

Well-Balanced Farm Profitable.

A well-balanced farm business is nearly always profitable. The farms that are as good or better than the average of their community in all four of the factors here mentioned seldom fail to make a good profit. Thus, if a farm is devoted to a type of farming adopted to its conditions, if it is as good or better than the average in size of business, yield of crops, production of live stock, and efficiency in the use of labor, and is adequately and economically equipped, it is almost certain to be profitable. The weakest factor is the one that needs attention in improving the business. If the quality of the live stock is high, greater improvement in the farm business can usually be obtained by devoting attention to developing the size of the business or sale of cash crops, or increasing labor efficiency, rather than by further improving the quality of live stock.

The Department of Agriculture has recently prepared a bulletin, "A Method of Analyzing the Farm Business," which contains valuable information for farmers who wish to organize their operations on an economic basis. This bulletin and other printed matter on the subject may be had by interested persons free.

Cost of Production

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

THE big price cry from our farmers is that food cannot be produced for less than it costs. This sounds all right at first, but how are we going to know what food really costs?

There are two reasons why farmers will have to keep books. One is that when they demand that speculation be eliminated and that they be paid cost plus profit for their foodstuffs they will have to keep a cost system just the same as other producers and factories must do. Where one man will lose money at the market price another man will make a very satisfactory profit. This is something that the farmers must standardize.

There is another great reason why farmers will also keep books and that is that the government will insist that cost accounts of income and expense must be kept.

There is a standardized book now available at the Agricultural College of South Dakota for this purpose, which can be had at cost. The other universities are also furnishing books at a very nominal price.

All speculation is not done on the exchanges. If the farmer is holding his grain for a higher price he is speculating because the price may go lower. Organized speculation would seem to be of great benefit to the farmer, who can tell the trend of price for months to come, because the rules prevent any ties to the transaction.

DEAR OLD PETE:

Just wound up the one swellest day of my life! Since early this morning, when I got an invitation to visit R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. factories, I've been in the midst of millions of Camel cigarettes.

Man—the happiest idea you or I ever had as to the size of this Reynolds enterprise, or the number of Camels manufactured daily, is simply piker-stuff! Wipe off the slate and start fresh! Why—Pete, it seemed to me like a couple of those cigarette-making machines could keep half the nation smoking Camels steadily—BUT—honest to goodness, there are hundreds of these machines batting out Camels at the rate of 27,000 an hour—EACH!

Pete, you wouldn't have to consult a guide book to know you were in the Camel factories! The atmosphere is charged with that wonderful aroma you get when you open up a deck of Camels! And, you know, old elephant—you've had a trunk full!

As the Camels dropped into the containers I figured the delight each one would supply! And, how Camels mellow, mild body would hit the right spot and how Camels refreshing flavor would cheer up some smoker's jaded appetite! And, each Camel free from any unpleasant cigaretty aftertaste or unpleasant cigaretty odor! And—

Pete—I'll have to lay off and light another Camel! Write you some more soon.

Yours joyously

Shorty.

"Soaked" Family Doctor.

After a Kentucky judge had fined his family doctor $50 and costs for speeding and had sentenced him to jail for three days, he went on to say: "You and I are friends. I am your lawyer and you are my doctor, but I am here to tell you that you are as I see it. And you will serve the sentence in spite of our friendship or what any of our friends may say." Just wait until it comes Doc's turn to sit in judgment on that judge!

MRS. SYLVIA FOSTER, of Buffalo, N. Y., who says she wishes she could go into every home and tell how Tanlac completely retored her health after she had lost all hope of ever being well again.

"They had given up all hope of my ever being well again but thanks to Tanlac I am feeling as well now as I ever felt in my life and I only wish I had time to go to every home and tell every sick person about this grand medicine.

"A year ago last January I had a severe attack of influenza which left me in a terrible weakened condition and my appetitie was so poor that I ate little more than enough to keep body and soul together.

"My heart palpitated so dreadfully at times that it seemed like it had stopped altogether and I would think my time had come. I was so weak tht I couldn't go up the steps without holding to the railing. It was impossible for me to do any housework. I was so nervous that I couldn't drink my tea or coffee without spilling it.

"My sleep was restless and broken and I would have smothering spells and would just have to get up and go to the window so I could breathe.

I finally started taking Tanlac on the advice of a friend and before I had finished taking the second bottle my neighbors could tell I was improving right along. Well, it has only taken five bottles to restore my health completely.

"My appetite is just splendid now, my nerves are strong and steady, my housework is a real pleasure and I can sleep like a child at night. In fact, I never felt better in my life than I do now".

The above remarkable statement was made by Mrs. Sylvia Foster, of 206 S. Division St., Buffalo, N. Y., a well-known and highly respected resident of that city.

Tanlac is sold by all leading druggists.

Miss Murryen Welch left yesterday for Altoona and Pittsburgh, where she will spend a couple of weeks with relatives and friends.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

HEAD OF AMERICANISM BOARD

Henry J. Ryan of Boston, Mass., Is Named Chairman of Legion's Reorganized Commission.

Typical of the spirit of the American Legion is the appointment of Henry J. Ryan of Boston, Mass., a former apprentice seaman in the navy, to succeed Arthur Woods of New York, who was a colonel in the army and former police commissioner of New York city, as chairman of the Legion's reorganized Americanism commission, headquarters of which is at national headquarters at Indianapolis.

When the war broke out Mr. Ryan attempted to enlist several times in the army, but was refused because of his defective eyesight. At last the navy accepted him, but he was ordered to remain on shore duty. During the various drives for Liberty loans and war funds the newly appointed chairman acquired a national reputation as an orator, especially on subjects involving patriotism and Americanism.

Other members of the commission are To serve one year, Florella H. LaGuardia, New York city; William B. Follett, Portland, Ore.; E. K. Bixby, Muskogee, Okla.; Edgar H. Baird, Philadelphia; Garland W. Powell, Cumberland, Md.; Richard F. Beirne, Richmond, Va. To serve two years, Peyton H. Hoge, Jr., Louisville, Ky.; A. H. Gansser, Bay City, Mich.; Col. Gordon Johnson, U. S. A., chief of staff to Gen. Leonard Wood, Fort Sheridan, Ill. To serve three years, Will Percy, Greenville, Miss.; Dwight Davis, St. Louis; F. O. Horton, Des Moines, Ia.; Lindsey Blayney, Houston, Tex., and Leonard Withington, Honolulu, Hawaii.

It will be the Legion's aim under Mr. Ryan to co-ordinate and consolidate the activities for the promotion of Americanism of the Y. M. C. A., Red Cross, Knights of Columbus, Masons, Salvation Army, National Security league and many other organizations. To this end a conference will be held in Washington soon.

MAN OF TRAVEL EXPERIENCE

Samuel, Adjutant of Legion, Department of Kansas, Has Seen Much of Broad World.

After traveling over pretty much all of the continents of North America, Europe and Asia, Frank E. Samuel has settled down into a busy life as adjutant of the American Legion, department of Kansas, with headquarters in Topeka.

Samuel was born in Downing, Mo., in 1880. Armed with a college degree in 1912 he started out to see the world. What part of it he missed in civilian pursuits was made up to him when he joined the Three Hundred and Fifty-third infantry regiment of the famous Eighty-ninth division and served in all the battles in which that outfit participated.

Samuel, on his return to civil life, became assistant state adjutant of the Legion in Kansas and was made adjutant in September, 1919. He was recently re-elected for a two-year term.

GENERAL'S WIFE NEW LEADER

Mrs. Clarence Edwards Is Chosen President of Massachusetts Department of Auxiliary.

Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, who commanded the Twenty-sixth division through its training period in the States, in quiet defensive sectors and in its later participation in almost every major offensive of the war, is the idol of thousands of New England members of the American Legion and other former service men.

Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards, his wife, is now placed in a similar position by the mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of these veterans, for Mrs. Edwards was elected president of the Massachusetts department of the women's auxiliary of the American Legion at a recent state convention of that organization.

The newly elected president is a resident of Newton, Mass. She has been active in work for the benefit of New England members of the American Legion and other former service men.

James Titus, of DuBois, spent yesterday with friends here.

Mrs. Rena Knepp spent Sunday at her home in Woodland.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By "Skinney"

The female of the species, ever since Mother Eve's fatal error, has always been called upon to bear more than her fair share of the myriad troubles that beset the world. Lowly Bulgaria is the latest nation or country to emphasize woman's responsibility for trouble and government officials are now holding to account the wives of prominent statesmen and soldiers where it can be proved the wife's influence over the husband resulted in disaster, political or military, to the country.

News dispatches say that despite the fact that Warren G. Harding will not take charge of the official "plum tree" until March 4th almost one month hence—Washington is already filled up with the starved and hungry Republican faithful in the hope of landing something good which leads our poet to remark:

"They're fighting for the offices that
Harding has to fill;
How sad a thing it is that there are many spoilsmen still;
But let's be hoping for the best and
striving to be glad;
Things can't be worse than they have been—they may not be as bad.

Job Was Far From Being Patient

The penetrating shafts of present day pitiless publicity proceed powerfully to puncture many of the fallacies we learned in our youth. We always thought our late friend Job was a patient old cuss, but must confess as we recall our scripture that the following tale hits the nail just about on the head:

"Though through his history we probe
With earnest application,
We always fail to find how Job
Amassed his reputation.
A patient man, it seems to us,
Though all his fortunes crumble,
Should never make a row or fuss
Or curse his luck or grumble.
Job lacked, as far as we can find,
The simplest stoic training.
He kept his troubles on his mind
And always was complaining.

When first he fell in Satan's toils
He roared with indignation;
When suffering a bit from boils
He cursed his generation.
Though kindly prophets gathered
round
To offer the prediction
That shortly would a way be found
To free him from affliction,
He swore that he no longer cared
Upon the earth to languish,
He tore his hair, his breast he bared,
He cried aloud his anguish.

Misfortune made more hard his lot,
But did he laugh and flout it
And bear it meekly? He did not;
He wailed aloud about it.
He reeled off yards of bitter verse
When rougher luck assailed him;
He launched a long pictorial curse
On every blow that [illegible]
Hi[illegible]
A splendid name to win him,
He turned out great poetic stuff,
But patience wasn't in him!"

The United States in education occupies ninth place, with most of the civilized world ahead of us.

Pennsylvania is today twenty-first on the list of states, educationally speaking. We have within our borders 354,000 illiterates. Georgia has 389,000 illiterates, New York 406,000. Alabama has 352,000. Louisiana has 352,000, Mississippi, 290,000, and Texas, 262,000, Illinois has 168,000, Ohio 124,000, and New Jersey, 141,000.

Even Massachusetts has 141,000 and undertakes partially to solve the problem by depriving them of the right to vote.

Illiteracy alone is responsible for an economic loss to the country of $825,000,000 a year.

Teachers' salaries are so low that "the competent and self-respecting are being driven from their work."

Scores of communities are financially unable to support any schools at all.

These facts were recently pointed out in the United States Congress in a report of the House committee on education, which recommended the passage of the Smith-Towner bill providing for a federal department of education and federal aid to the states as a necessary measure meant to meet the situation.

There is considerable opposition to the Smith-Towner bill on the ground that it would interfere with private and parochial schools, but in its report the committee, of which Representative Fess, Republican, Ohio, is chairman, denies that the bill would give the federal government power to determine courses of study or sanction interference with public or private school management in any state. It adds:

"The idea is fundamentally sound that the nation, the state and the local community should share in the responsibility and the expense of supporting an equalized system of public education."

The House, late Saturday, by an overwhelming majority, overrode President Wilson's veto of the resolution ordering a reduction of the army to 175,000 men. The vote was 271 to 16. It may be a queer way of thinking but according to regular practices it was quite proper for Mr. Wilson to veto the resolution for the reason that not long ago there had been legislation providing for a reorganization of the army on a basis of 280,000 men. Just what Congress expects to come of that reorganization with only 150,000 men is not known. If the resolution passes the Senate we will be in the queer position of the man who erected the frame work for an immense house and then lacked the necessary boards to build up the walls. Perhaps the walls will be supplied after the war clouds gather but that is a little dangerous as we found out after trying it once.

McColl, South Carolina, is credited with a population of 2129. A church survey, announced Saturday, shows that only two men and one boy are not church members, taking twelve years as a minimum age. The women were unanimous.

McColl ought to be a pretty good place to live in, unless the church members there are similar to a lot of them we know hereabouts.

One good thing about that town, there are only two men and a boy who can consistently find fault with those who have a keen sense of their responsibility under God's plan and who have united with a church to help further the work of the Kingdom.

There wouldn't be much room there for the "I am holier than thou" Pharisee. Too much competition. And a fellow couldn't very often get an opportunity to skin somebody who didn't belong to a church although their code may permit them to skin a member of another church. Ours does.

All in all, we imagine McColl is just about like any other town. No doubt the Methodists there dance to jazzy music and play cards for prizes, the Presbyterians put their hope in predestination and faith, the Baptists probably think that one bath in a life time will put them thru the pearly gates and the Catholics probably turn their calendar to the wall on Fridays and neglect confession until they get a good sized pain.

Hats off to McColl anyhow. You have a record that you may well be proud of for it is better to have tried and failed than not to have tried at all. Those who do nothing never make mistakes or lay themselves open to criticism.

That B., R. & P. railway crossing at Bailey's on the Clearfield-Curwensville state road has been a bugaboo ever since the agitation began for the improvement of this road. It was one of the excuses offered every time the proposed project was delayed and once more it rears its hoary old head into the proceedings and we are led to believe that the State Highway Department has allowed this condition to "fiddle along" and nothing has been done toward the solving of this problem. In fact it is stated on very good authority that no contract has been let thus far to cover the improvement thru and around this crossing. If this information is correct it is surely surprising and entirely out of keeping with the usual thorough manner of doing business of the State Highway Department under the present regime.

We were told when the contract for this road was let to Bowler & Anderson some two years ago that the matter of this crossing was a matter for the action of the Public Service Commission, which body was authorized under the law to direct that the crossing be improved in conformity with the permanent improvement of the road leading to it, with the safety of the traveling public in mind. To bring the matter to the attention of the Public Service Commission, it would seem to us is the duty of the State Highway Department, and the proper action should be taken at once.

We understand the engineers' plans call for an underground crossing at this point and suggest that the Clearfield County Good Roads Association and County Commissioner get busy and bring the matter to the attention of Highway Commissioner Sadler at once in order that the crossing may be completed with the remainder of the highway between Curwensville and Clearfield.

BUSINESS AND TRADE

With Special Attention to Coal, Clay and Brick Trade News of Local Interest.

THE SURPRISE OF THE 1920 FOREIGN TRADE

The manner, and in some degree, the cause of the surprises of our foreign trade in the calendar year 1920 can now be determined, or at least closely approximated, says a statement by the National City Bank of New York. The enormous increase in imports, which jumped from $3,904,000,000 in 1919 to $5,280,000,000 in 1920 occurred in each of the three great groups, manufacturing materials, foodstuffs and manufactures. Manufacturing materials advanced from $1,675,000, 00 in 1919 to $1,750,000,000 in 1920; foodstuffs from $1,100,000,000 to $1,816,000,000, while manufactures imported jumped from $1,1000,000,000 in 1919 to $1,680,000,000. The increases of the three great groups over 1919 were in manufacturing material, $75,000,000; foodstuffs, $716,000,000, and manufactures, $580,000,000.

The reasons for these phenomenal increases are largely due to the extremely high prices in the early part of 1920, and to the persistent importation in large quantities, irrespective of prices. With raw cotton running up to 50c, 60c and even as high as 69c per pound in August, before the downward movement began, it is not surprising that in raw cotton alone the value of the imports of the 11 months ending with November were $135,000,000 against $60,000,000 in the same period of 1919, and $40,000,000 in the same months of 1918, while the fact that import prices of raw silk reached their water mark of over $12 a pound about the middle of the year, and that the decline in wool and hides did not come until the second half of the year, explains the increase of $75,000,000 in value of raw material imported. The big increase in the value of foodstuffs imported, amounting to $716,000,000 is of course largely to the extreme high price paid for the sugar and coffee in the first half, or two-thirds of the year. The increase of $8,000,000 in manufactures imported occurs largely in luxuries and high grade factory products; an increase of about $10,000,000 in art works; $15,000,000 in laces; nearly $100,000,00 in cotton goods; $20,000,000 in furs; $65,000,000 in manufactures of fibers; $30,000,000 in silk manufactures, and $40,000,000 in woolen manufactures.

On the export side, the chief surprises were the fall off in foodstuffs, and the big increase in manufactures exported. Manufacturing material, to be sure, shows an increase of $260,000,000 over the same months of last year, due largely to the high prices of export cotton in the first half of the year, the prices having ranged up to 54c a pound until past the middle of the year before they tobogganed to half that figure in the closing part of the year. Foodstuffs exported show a tremendous fall-off, from $2,640,000,000 in 1919 to $2,135,000,000 in 1920, a drop of a little more than $500,000,000, this decline occurring chiefly in meat and dairy products, and apparently due to the unwillingness or inability of our chief customer for meats, Europe, to longer pay the high prices which persisted until the closing months of the year.

The biggest and most gratifying of the year's surprises is the fact that manufactures exported made a new high record, having totaled $4,166,000,000 against $3,486,000,000 in 1919, and $1,099,000,000 in the year immediately preceding the war, a gain of $677,000,000 over last year, and $3,064,000,000 over the fiscal year 1914. This big increase in our 1920 exports of manufactures, in the face of a fall-off in exports of food, and but a slight gain in those of raw material, is especially gratifying, as a large proportion of this increase occurs in articles of daily and prime necessity; cotton goods alone, an increase of $131,000,000 over 1919; automobiles an increase of $138,000,000; mineral oils $163,000,000 increase; chemicals $35,000,000; rubber manufactures $30,000,000; manufactures of wood $50,000,000, and iron and steel manufactures about $00,000,000, all these advances in value being due to corresponding increases in quantities exported. Manufactures formed 52 per cent of the domestic exports in 1920 as against 11 per cent in 1914.

Another striking feature of the year's record was the bing increase in exports to all the non-manufacturing world, even in the closing month of the year, in which a falloff had been predicted. Exports to South America increased 41 per cent in the full year, and 116 per cent in December; those to Asia, exclusive of manufacturing Japan, increased 18 per cent in the full year and 83 per cent in December; those to Africa advanced 69 per cent in the year, and over 100 per cent in December; to Oceania, 38 per cent gain in the full year and 150 per cent in December, and to North America, other than the United States, an increase of practically 50 per cent in the full year, and 20 per cent in December, while to Europe the fall-off was 10 per cent for the full year, and 10 per cent in December.

TUBERCULOSIS OF CHICKENS

Affected Fowls Squat in Secluded Places and Gradually Become Quite Emaciated.

Tuberculosis of chickens is quite common and is caused by a type of tubercle bacillus which has become adapted to birds. Transmission of tuberculosis from poultry to mammals, including man, is rare except in case of hogs. Hogs contract tuberculosis from poultry, and are more susceptible to cattle tuberculosis than are cattle themselves. Chickens, when affected, squat in secluded places and gradually become emaciated. In dressing a diseased chicken the breast muscles are usually wasted and the lesions are most likely to be found in the liver, spleen and intestines. Cheesy masses in any of these organs is always suspicious. The disease may be detected by means of the intradermal tuberculin test.—George H. Glover, Colorado Agricultural College.

One Recipe for Success.

All a man has to do to make a real success in life is to spend 25 or 30 years learning to do some simple thing better than anybody else can do it, and then 25 or 30 years doing it every day, so as to give people a chance to find out about it.—Ohio State Journal

Foley's Honey and Tar
COMPOUND

AN OLD RELIABLE FAMILY REMEDY, recommended for coughs, colds, tickling of the throat, spasmodic croup, whooping cough, la grippe, and bronchial coughs, hoarseness, etc.

The First Dose Gave Relief

C. E. Summers, Holdredge, Neb., writes: "Some time ago I contracted a very severe cough and cold due to exposure. My cough got so bad I could hardly sleep for two or three nights. A friend of mine recommended Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and I got a 60c bottle. The very first dose relieved me. I took a second dose before going to bed and can truthfully say I did not cough once all night. By using as directed the next two days my cough was entirely gone, and I give Foley's Honey and Tar full credit for my speedy and permanent recovery."

For more than thirty years Foley's Honey and Tar has been used with satisfaction and success.

LEGION TEAM TAKES APOLLO TEAM INTO CAMP TO VICTORY

Th American Legion basket ball team took the Apollo Club of Houtzdale into camp Saturday evening by the score of 33 to 27. The first half ended 19—13 with Clearfield leading the coal barons.

The game was very fast and rough-with emphasis on the rough stuff. The Houtzdaler's being used to playing National rules were constantly kicking about the fouls being called. However the game was very exciting.

For Clearfield, Way Powell played a stellar game at forward, caging four field goals. Clark Mitchell dropped in three double-deckers and shot 1 fouls out of 9 tries. Johnson also threw three fields goals and 9 fouls out of 20.

Houtzdale's floor work and passing was exceptionaly good but they were unable to penetrate the defensive work of the Legionnares. Captain Jimmy Mitchell and Robinson at guard held their opponent forwards so close that they were forced to shoot at long range.

The Apollo Club have won 10 out of 14 games so far this season and claim the championship of Central Penna. and so the Legion men are pleased to dispute this title

The line up:

Clfd. A. L.	Positions	Apollo Club
C. Mitchell	forward	Wiberb
Powell	forward	Burchill

JUST HALF A CENTURY NOTE

Amount Handed Over by Montana Official to Neighbor Who Was Not "Up to Date."

The approach of winter reminds Attorney Peter Breen of years ago, when he was county attorney, and he used to travel behind a fast horse named for his office. Then he got the automobile bug and bought a machine. He was on his way to his ranch when he came up with one of his neighbors who was driving his old-fashioned team.

"Ah why don't you get up to date?" asked Breen. The rancher never answered, and the automobile sped on.

Half a mile farther on the road something went wrong with the machinery and the thing slipped into a ditch.

Along came the rancher and his team. It was snowing and the prospects of a night out in a ditch looked favorable.

"Say, pull me out and haul me to my place," said Breen.

"Fifty dollars," said the rancher.

Pete nearly collapsed. It began snowing harder.

Peter paid the fifty.—Anaconda Standard.

THE LEFTOVER PROBLEM.

At this season of the year when the gathering of the clans means a variety of leftovers, it is necessary that the housewife should put extra thought on how to serve them attractively.

One may prepare croquettes, souffles, timbals, omelets, filling for patty shells or pastry cases, chicken pie from leftover chicken; with celery and nuts as salad, with celery and peas as salad, with celery, apples and nuts as salad, creamed on toast, rolled in a biscuit mixture baked and served with chicken gravy, creamed with a border of rice, as a hot chicken sandwich, a club sandwich, chicken soup and as a filling for rice or potato croquettes. Turkey, goose or duck leftovers may be served in nearly all of these ways equally as well.

If one has a peach or two or three left from a can they may be used in various dishes as a garnish. Prepare an ordinary cornstarch pudding, using two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, with three of sugar and one and one-half cupfuls of milk, a pinch of salt; cook until smooth and thick and pour into small dishes for serving. When cold place half a peach hollow side up on the mold of pudding, which, by the way, is flavored with a few drops of almond just as it is taken from the fire. Serve with a spoonful of whipped cream or with sugar and cream. Plain cooked rice may be served with such a garnish. If there is but a peach or two they may be cut in dice, added to a diced apple and twice as much celery, mixed with a little salad dressing and served as a salad.

Another dessert which may be made from a few peaches or pears is the following: Take sponge cake cut in rounds, on each place a few spoonfuls of the peach sauce or strup, and place a peach hollow side up and sprinkle with nuts. Cover with whipped cream and serve. Pears may be served in the same way.

Sour Cream Filling for Cake.—Take one cupful each of sugar (brown), sour cream and nuts. Cook until thick. Raisins may be used instead of the nuts.

SHINE AT STUDY AND WORK

Miss Mabel Embery and Miss Marian Hunt Polish Shoes to Aid Wilson College Endowment Fund.

"HAVE A SHINE, MISS?"

A "SHINING EXAMPLE" of Loyal co-Ede student is Miss Mabel Embery of Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pa., who polishes shoes of acquaintances to add to her contribution to the $500,000 endowment fund which her Alma Mater is raising. Miss Embery, who shines in her scholastic work and polishes in her fund-raising task, had no previous experience in the leather-brightening line before she elected to sacrifice her leisure hours for a good cause. She is the daughter of Joseph R. Embery, a lawyer with offices in the Real Estate Trust Building, Philadelphia, and home at No. 1221 Harrison street, Frankfort, Pa.

Nothing so common as the ordinary shoe-polisher's outfit does for shining the footgear of the Wilson College students and faculty. Miss Embery and Miss Marian Hunt, of Williamsport, her working partner, assembled kits consisting of old tooth-brushes, clothes-brushes and soft felt pennants of rival institutions. In addition to shining a half-dozen pairs of shoes nightly, the two industrious young women read the character of their customers from their shoes.

Run-down heels indicate slovenliness, say the shoe experts. The French heel signifies the butterfly type of girl, while the low-heel oxford is the symbol of common sense, —and, the character readers add, is favored by the majority of the Wilson College students.

The transformation of two plucky collegians into shoe-shiners dates back to the beginning of the present term, when the alumnae, following Wilson College's Golden Jubilee, enlisted all the classes in the task of raising half-a-million for the institution. In addition to contributing their allowances, the students cast about for additional means of earning money for the fund.

Other students having chosen clothes mending, pressing, fudge-making and the like, Miss Embery did not get her inspiration until she went to town for a shine, observed the technique of the polisher and launched her new trade. Shoes rained in on her and all went well until a pair of patent leathers arrived for shining. Miss Embery and Miss Hunt had no preparation for patent leathers, but they solved it. They used cold cream.

How Do You Get That Way?

A young woman writes to inquire how to tell when she is in love and when it's the weather. She says she cannot always differentiate between the depression that comes from the gloom and the rain, and the tickling of the heart. The two moods are identical so far as she is able to analyze them.—Berkshire Eagle.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Don't Stay Gray.. Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea and Sulphur

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for 'Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound,' you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients all ready to use at a very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful. This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Are you disregarding the Danger Signal?

WHAT would you think of an engineer who deliberately ran past a semaphore that showed "Danger Ahead"?

Yet we humans—the engineers of our lives—often pay no attention to the signs of endangered health.

One of the most important of warning signals is a cough. It should not be neglected for a single day. At the first sign of its appearance get

Monster Sharks.

Inhabiting the deep are two gigantic sharks, either one of which may reach a length of 40 feet. The basking shark is found in northern seas, occasionally straying southward to our coasts, and the whale shark seems to have its principal habitat in the Indian ocean, though stragglers have turned up as far away as the shores of Florida. One such mounted is on exhibition at Miami and will repay a visit to anyone who chances to be in that vicinity.

Kerosene and Coal.

Kerosene contains more heating energy than coal when considered on a weight basis. A pound of kerosene contains about 19,000 heat units, whereas a pound of high-grade coal contains about 15,000. The cost of the various fuels for heating purposes depends largely upon the relative supply.

Tracing Origin of Billiards.

Billiards is believed by some to have been brought from the east by the Crusaders, while others claim an English origin for it and find it allied to the game of bowls. Still others assert that the French developed it from an ancient German game. It seems pretty certain that the first person to give form and rule to the game was an artist named Henrique Devigne, who lived in the reign of Charles IX. One writer sees in billiards the ancient game of pallemaille played on a table instead of on the ground, and this is a reasonable assumption.

Clothes and Cleanliness.

It is true that clothes were more picturesque in past ages and that men as well as women gloried in gorgeous apparel. The nobleman was as fond as his "ladye love" of rich fabrics and ruffles, and the clasp that held his floating plume to his velvet hat flashed with real gems. But here is where civilization takes a hand. Compare the cleanliness of the men of the past with those of the present. In the Sixteenth century French gentlemen changed their linen once in two weeks, and even at that were deemed recklessly extravagant by the English for so doing.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

CURWENSVILLE

The Editorial in The Progress Friday evening commenting on an item relative to a new rule in vogue at the public schools, caused many an old timer who read it, grin broadly and recall his boyhood school days, when it took a muscular individual to handle the tough mountaineer lads in this section. As one, who is now past years, said Saturday, a man in my days was not employed for the book knowledge he had, but for his qualification he posessed as a strong arm man with a birch almost as large as a lash pole. Those who attended skule under the tution of old Peter Hoover and Squire Evans, can feel their flesh creep yet, thinking of the time their hide was tanned by either one of those pedegogues. The most fun we had was the barring out of the "Skule Master" in order to make him promise to treat the scholars at a certain time before the term ended. Sometimes we won out and sometimes out and sometimes our hides had to bear the brunt of our indiscretion.

John Way, who is located in Indiana County, was in Curwensville a few days, the latter part of last week

Howard McClosky, who spent several months in Clearfield hospital under medical treatment, came home last week. His health is somewhat improved, but his recovery is very slow, an dhe will not be able to resume his usual labor before next spring.

Miss Mary Lucas, who has been stopping with relatives in Curwensville for some time, has returned to her home at Morgantown, W. Va. She was highly pleased with the cordial treatment accorded her by the people of this town during her stay.

A pre-Lent dance will be held in the American Legion rooms this evening. Music will be furnished by Brown's Banjo orchestra.

C. S. Reed has been out of town for several days looking after some important business.

About half a dozen tannery men have gone to Ridgway to work in the big tannery there until the tannery here resumes operation.

The Abrino orchestra will soon be in shape to play public engagements. It has already furnished music for several entertainments and was well received.

Gordon Bloom, who resides in Philadelphia, came to Curwensvile the latter part of last week on receipt of a telegram announcing the death of his father, Harvey Bloom, whose funeral was held from J. L. Smith's undertaking rooms last Saturday morning, the body being taken to the Bloomington cemetery. Mr. Bloom is survived by two brothers and two sisters.

Our county superintendent of schools, W. P. Trostle, has requested all teachers not only to enroll their schools but also to report all savings monthly to the department, using for that purpose the franked report cards in their possession.

Orvis R Gulich, our Assistant post master, issued a statement today to the effect that during the month of January there was sold at the Clearfield Post Office one $5.00 Savings Stamp, 109 Thrift stamps, and 30 $100 00 Treasury Savings Certificates.

A Kiss in The Dark

By RALPH HAMILTON

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

Suddenly the electric light went out. There was a series of faint exclamations from the six young ladies, a rustling among young men of the same number, accompanied by prolonged "Ohs!" and "Ahs!" Then a suspicious but familiar sound, brief tut snappy, suggested the distinct echo of a kiss. The young ladies giggled hysterically, the young men uttered gloating sighs.

"Horrid!"

"Who is the guilty one?"

The erratic lights of Woodville came on again. This freak of shut-off power was a common one in the town, but the variation and excitement aroused by the present episode gave a zest to curiosity and excitement. Everybody looked challengingly at everybody else. The over-sensitive appeared embarrassed, the girls bit their lips and the men looked preternaturally arch and wise. The hostess, Millie Deane, was fluttered, but that was fairly natural, for most of the group was centered about her. Next to her sat her cousin, Ruth Purcell, serene and smiling. Next to her was Robert Thurston, but who would suspect either of those as participants in stolen bliss? For Ruth was twenty-six as against grades down to juvenility among the others, and Thurston was prim, shy and sedate on all occasions.

The circumstance passed into obscurity, though still voted mysterious, and there was infinite chattering and suspicion. The party broke up at length and the cousins were alone. It was then that Millie began to betray agitation and excitement.

"Ruth," she announced, but whether indignant or simply puzzled she did not betray, "I was the recipient of that perplexing kiss!"

"Yes, dear," nodded Ruth, all smiles, "and it was I who bestowed it," and Millie actually pouted and looked disappointed.

"You!" she exclaimed, half believing.

"Yes. Oh, Millie! I was so proud of you because you looked so beautiful, I could not restrain the tribute to your loveliness. Thanks for the return kiss in the dark."

"The—what!" uttered Millie volubly.

"I touched you on the cheek, and you responded with a kiss right on the lips, and—"

"I never!" dissented Millie with gentle force. "I was so taken aback I nearly screamed. Why! what is the matter?"

Ruth sat aghast. She believed Millie, and the revelation startled and then stunned her. She could feel that warm pressure yet on her lips. Who had dared! Ruth was not insensible to admiration or the tribute of attention and respect, but she resented the liberty some one had taken for, as she got past girlhood, she had been growing duly circumspect. Millie indulged in a boisterous burst of merriment.

"Good! Good! You are the victim!" she rallied Ruth. "And who knows but you invited it? You took such delight in teasing me by not divulging the truth for a whole hour, that I can pay you back. You've told the girls a dozen times in the past year that you were practically unkissable, having decided to live and die an old maid. Oh, tut, tut, you deceiver! Come, who was the subtle, secret lover who stole his toll amid the darkness?"

"I am glad that Blake Ashton was not present," cogitated Millie. "The way I acted might have made him think I was the victim of the kiss, and he is so jealous."

For several days after the episode of the stolen kiss Ruth was restless and at times agitated, as the watchful Millie observed. Neither referred to the circumstance of the evening of the party, but Millie was full of it when her fiance returned.

"And, oh! Blake; I've been studying Ruth, and although she says nothing I am sure that mysterious kiss has stirred her up strangely. It is like a journey into the realm of romance for her, after all these years, and, oh, Blake! I know who kissed her."

"You do!" exclaimed Blake in surprise "Have you told Ruth?"

"Oh, dear, no! For one reason, I wanted to consult you first."

"Who was it?"

"Robert Thurston."

"Oh, impossible!" cried Blake definitely. "Why, I've often suspected that he liked Ruth, but he is too shy and unloverlike to ever tell her so."

"Well, I want to make him do just that, dear; and I want you to help. We are so happy ourselves, why not try to urge two lone, longing souls into the same paradise? Don't you see that Robert probably could not resist a mighty impulse, encouraged by the darkness Why, I know it was him, because I noticed on Ruth's shoulder two loose petals from the rose Robert wore in his buttonhole, Press him close, Blake, and get him to confess. Then—"

The mischief-eyed little sylph materialized that "then" when the confession was gained. She brought Ruth and Robert together more than once during the ensuing month. By gradations Ruth was enlightened as to the identity of her bold kiss burglar, but by that time she was ready to be kissed again, for dawning love had paved the way

Ribbon Trimmed Taffeta Frocks

WHETHER they are made of satin or taffeta, many of the new afternoon frocks appear to exist with a single ambition, and that is to set forth one of the many ingenious ways in which narrow ribbons may be used as an embellishment for them Designers appear to have discovered in ribbon trimmings a new world to conquer and they are busily exploring it Nothing seems to suit quite so well the character of taffeta frocks as the unpretentious, pretty ribbon fancies It is in the nature of things that they should replace embroideries and braidings

Among the afternoon frocks made ready for spring appears the simple and fascinating model shown in the picture. A glance reveals that it has not discarded the plain bodice elbow sleeves of many taffeta frocks and that it approves the ribbon vogue emphasis, for it has a long tunic full one, which is bordered with rows and scrolls of narrow ribbon stitched along the edge and sewed down to the silk There is a belt of taffeta ribbon French fold and the sleeves are prettily finished with the shirred ribbon, which in this case is in the same color as the dress.

Some of the new taffeta or satin afternoon frocks have bodices of georgette crepe in a contrasting color, trimmed with narrow frilled ribbon like the skirt in color The ribbon is used to finish edges in borders in little loops sewed over the crepe and in lacing under short tufts set close together Frocks of dark taffeta have the full skirts of fabric finished with a wide border in lattice work made of ribbon stitched down on both edges Very narrow fluted or pinked frill in bright colors edges the bottom of taffeta skirts and bodices, ribbon trimmers find many points of setting

The resolution in this form appeared almost certain to be defeated. It was sent to the Committee on Judiciary Special, of which Glass is chairman and there the matter was threshed out with the result that now, if the resolution carries, it will confine its investigation to the anthracite fields. It is almost certain to be supported by the bituminous coal men as the result of this move.

Several other important bills are to be acted on tonight or Tuesday in the House. Among them is the [illegible] authorizing a tax on bill boards. This is the fourth revenue source proposed by Governor Sproul in his message to the legislature. He had suggested this means in case his other proposals fell flat. It is believed, however, that he has secured the support of his recommendation to tax coal and distribute the revenue on a 60-40 basis to the state, the community and a general fund. It is not known who will back the bill but it is generally believed the bill will be introduced shortly.

The state highway bill passed by the Senate last week is also before the House this week. Whether it will be reached in the already crowded calendar before the house and various committees during the three days the house will be in session remains to be seen. The bill was opposed by several of the "irreconcilables" in the senate and was objected to on the floor by Senator Bar r,Pittsburgh. He said the 6 per cent. interest rate called for is too high. About $50,000,000 will be raised by these bonds, it is estimated.

PILLAR OF FIRE RELIGIOUS RITES SAID TO BE JAZZY

Mrs. Alma White, stalwart founder of the "Pillar of Fire" a religious organization of Nation-wide scope, with headquarters in Bound Brook, N. J., has instuted divorce proceedings in the Court of Chauncery against the Rev. Kent White, formerly a Methodist clergyman. The only "Bishop" of her sex in Chrristendom charges her husband with desertion.

The Pillar of Fire was organized in Denver in 1901. It was first incorporated in Colorado and later in New Jersey. It was after the "Bishop's" marriage to the Methodist minister that she first tookup the evangelistic work which later resolved itself into the present organization of which she is head. Her husband at one time was connected with the movement, but later withdraw and lived in England.

In speaking of the Pillar of Fire in connection with its story of Mrs. White's suit, the New York World says. The manifestation of "religion" as practised by the Pillar of Fire devotees consists in bends , wriggles, crowls, dips, hops, nad jumps. They literally "shimmey" their way in kingdom come. During a service in their temple the entire congregation arises and the holy hop is on. They cavort up and down theaisle, scorning such minor hazards as tables, chairs and pew backs.

The defendant in the present action has been described as a "plain little man who never jumped or danced and who sang as if it hurt him."

Mrs. White is double her husband in height, weight and capacity for jubilation.

In Bound Bok it is said that Mr. White became a Pillar of Fire devotee because his wife told him to do so. Their son, Arthur, joined hisparents in the organization after he found out his regular Methodist pastor chewed tobacco.

Arthur knew that was wrong.

ROCKEFELLER SAYS HE WOULD LIKE TO MEET MR. HARDING

By Raymond Clapper

(Copyright 1921 by United Press)

Ormond Beach, Fla., Feb. 7.—John D. Rockefeller today told me that he would like to meet President-elect Harding. He expressed great interest in the personality and travels of the next president.

"Is Mr. Harding here?" Rockefeller asked, manifesting immediate interest when told that I was one of the newspaper men with the president elect's party. Being told that Harding probably would arrive later, Rockefeller said, "I hope to se him. I have never met Mr. Harding."

There was a possibility that Rockefeler and Harding would meet on the golf links here. I found Rockefeller near the modest cottage in which he lives in seclusion. He has just returned from a mile walk with a step that semed spry. He is 86 and his eyes were bright and piercing. His conversation showed an active and alert mind. He wore a black frock coat, a straw hat and a gold headed cane was under his arm. He didn't lean on it. He used it as a swagger stick.

During the conversation Rockefeller spoke to a woman soloist from the Baptist church which he attends. "You sang well this morning," he told her.

"Did you hear her and the sermon. You ought to have heard the sermon." He placed the emphasis on the "you" and smiled.

An X-ray picture disclosed that no bones were broken, but the little fellow's injury is quite painful.

WILL CONTINUE REVIVAL

Revival services will be continued at the Eleventh Street Methodist Episcopal church until Wednesday night. There is hope that there will be not slacking up of the attendance as the revival has been a success thus far.

Starting Slips.

More house plants are grown from slips than from seeds. To do this take a branch half ripe and cut a slit three inches long. Take off all the leaves except the upper two and root it well in wet sand several inches thick, putting one and one-half inches of the slip under the sand. Keep this thoroughly moist. When the roots begin to grow put your plant, with its sand, into a pot provided with other soil. Some slips, such as oleander and ivy, will root in water.

Monarch's Mummy Finally at Rest.

The mummy of the celebrated Egyptian king, Rameses II. reposes in the Egyptian museum in Cairo. The mummy was first interred at Bibanet-Muluk and was subsequently concealed from grave robbers in the shaft at Deir-el-Bebri, where it was found in 1881, and later removed to the museum mentioned.

Girls Traveled Far in Wilderness.

Down the wild and ragged east shoreline of Lake Winnipeg, Manitoba, where not a farm nor a settlement breaks the desolation, two young women of eastern Canada recently rowed 200 miles in an open boat, taking a month for the trip and making their own camp every night. The collection of fossils, in which the region is rich, was the object of the remarkable journey. A lone Indian was the only human being sighted in the entire distance. The daring voyagers were deposited by a steamer at the mouth of the Berens river, about midway of the lake, and from that point were wholly dependent upon their own resources. — Popular Mechanics Magazine.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL
Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits.

MRS. R. B. BRUBAKER DIED SUDDENLY ON SATURDAY EVENING

Mrs. Anna H., beloved wife of Randall B. Brubaker, died suddenly at the Clearfield Hospital Saturday night about 11 o'clock. The deceased was a surgical patient at the hospital, having undergone an operation some two weeks ago. She was getting along finely and expected to be able to go to her home on Sunday. She was taken suddenly and very seriously ill. Everything possible was done to relieve her but it was unavailing. Death was due to a pulmonary throm bosis or embolism.

Mrs. Brubaker was of the finest type of Christian womanhood and took a great interest in church work. During the few short years of her residence in Clearfield she endeared herself to a large circle of warm and admiring friends, to whom news of her sudden taking away was indeed a sad and depressing shock, and her sorowing husband has the sympathy of the community in his bereavement.

Funeral services conducted by the Revs. E. C. Reeve, of the Presbyterian, and W. W. Hartman, of Trinity Methodist church, were held at her late home on West Locust street at 10 o'clock this morning and the body taken to Pittsburgh on the 1:10 o'clock Pennsylvania train, where the funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of her sister, Mrs. Wiliam H. Jones, 1123 Greenfield avenue. Interment will be made in Homestead cemetery.

Pale Complexions, Languid Feelings, Lowered Vitality, Need More Red Blood
Take Pepto-Mangan

So many people spend week after week feeling down and out. They never stop to think that something really is the matter. They satisfy thmselves by saying, "Oh, I'm not sick. I'll be all right tomorrow."

And tomorrow comes again and again. Still they feel depressed and languid, scarcely able to get around.

If you don't feel like yourself, you are not yourself. If you are weak and pale, your blood needs strengthening. You should know about Pepto-Mangan, that famous blood tonic. Physicians recommend it and prescribe it because it contains just the ingredients needed to make red blood. It renews your energy, puts you where you ought to be. Begin with it today. Get the tablets if they will be more convenient to take than the liquid. Both have the same medicinal properties. But be sure you get the genuine Pepto-Mangan. Ask for "Gude's" and be sure that the full name, Gude's Pepto-Mangan," is on the package. Adv.

FOURTEEN MEN IN AUTOMBILES KIDNAP GIRL AT WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. DRAG HER FROM BED WHERE SHE WAS IN HIDING

Leader of Gang Declares She is His Wife But Litlte Is Known at White Plains About Her. Fight for Girl Develops Into a Hot Battle With One Woman Wounded on the Head.

GANG ARRIVED JUST AFTER MIDNIGHT

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Feb. 7—Fourteen armed men abducted Miss Anna King at midnight after engaging in a gun battle in which one woman was wounded.

Miss King, who was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Albhons, was dragged from her bed by the men. The whole party escaped in two automobiles. One member of the gang was a woman.

The leader of the gang told Albhons that Miss King was his wife. No trace of the kidnappers had been found up to noon. The attack on the Albhons house evidently was carefully planned as the telephone wires were cut. Fourteen men alighted from cars in front of the house at midnight and began pounding on the front door. The leader, when Albhons opened the door, yelled at him to surrender "my wife Miss King." Albhons tried to call for help but found the telephone dead.

There was a smashing of glass and two windows were broken through which the band entered. Albhons' son fired on the gang. This was the signal for a general fusillade in which Albhon's daughter was slightly wounded. A bullet grazed her forehead. The men evidently knew the house as they went straight to Miss King's room. The door was locked but they battered it down. The girl was huddled in bed as they dragged her out. The party escaped in two automobiles before the neighbors could be aroused.

The girl is believed to be kept in hiding in the Bronx where the Albhons and Miss King formerly lived.

FORMER RESIDENT OF BRADFORD TWP. DIED SATURDAY

The venerable John C. Cowder, who has been ill since the middle of last November, died at 5 o'clock Saturday morning at his residence in Philipsburg. Had he lived another ten days he would have rounded out his eightieth year, having been born on February 15, 1841.

Funeral services will be held at the Cowder residence on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. His life-long friend, the Rev. B. J. Hummel, of Clearfield, will preach the sermon, the Rev. J. H. Bridigum, pastor of the United Brethren church, Philipsburg, assisting him with the service.

John Curtis Cowder, a native of Lancaster county, was the son of John and Sarah (Kidder) Cowder. The couple located in Bradford township, Clearfield county, where Mr. Cowder successfully followed farming for a number of years. Having become a member of the United Brethren church while yet in his teens he has been throughout his live actively interested in church work. He personally solicited much of the money needed to build the church at Shiloh in which he served as trustee while residing in that community. He was elected to various positions of trust in Bradford township, serving as tax collector and school director. He was a strong supporter of the public schools, manifesting a keen interest in their progress and welfare.

About 30 years ago Mr Cowder and family moved to Philipsburg, occupying the house in which they are now living. Mr. Cowder accepted employment with the late George Herman, grocer, working for him about 15 years. Most of the time since then he has lived retired. He was a trustee of the Philipsburg United Brethren church, and took part in the church activities.

Besides his aged wife he is survived by these children: Harry F, of Clearfield; Alice, wife of Herbert Graffius, Philipsburg; Margaret, wife of Roy Flegal, Philipsburg, and Robert M., Portage. PENROSE PROMISES BONUS TO SOLDIERS AID ON BILL GIVING

Washington, Feb. 7.—Senator Penrose, chairman of the senate finance committee, assured a committee of the American Legion which called on him Saturday he would make every effort to bring the soldiers' bonus bill to a vote in the senate at the present session.

The plan is to put through the house bill with the exception of the taxation provision raising the money to pay the cash bonus. This feature according to Senator Penrose, is to be left over for consideration at the next session along with other revenue legislation.

Members of the committee calling on Senator Penrose were F. W Galbraith, of Cincinnati, national commander of the American Legion Gilbert W. Bettman, of Cleveland John Thomas Taylor, of Philadelphia and S. W. Chadborn, of Massachusetts. The officers of the legion are in Washington for a conference beginning today, and they wanted to get some light on the intentions of the finance committee.

"I told them," said Senator Penrose, "the country was in a very bad financial condition and hardly able to meet its requirements, and that revenue would unquestionably fall off to a very marked degree during the next fiscal year.

"'At the same time I conceded it was the duty of the government to provide revenue for this patriotic purpose and that an added tax be levied, if necessary. I told them if time permitted I would favor imposing these taxes at this session, but it is obvious this is impossible. Attention was called to the way Congress was not going to complete its work, but that a continuous session virtually would be held. Hence, at an early date in the new session, such additional revenue by taxation would be provided.

"I was gratified to note what I had never before doubted, the men were in a reasonable frame of mind and avowedly did not want to insist on any course which might be against the best interests of the country."

DUBLIN NERVOUSLY EXPECTS SINN FEIN BATTLE TO BREAK IN CITY THIS WEEK

DUBLIN, February 7—Major Sinn Fein attacks against British forces in Dublin are expected this week. Assuming the aggressive in this region last week the Sinn Fein precipitated battles in which 14 lost their lives and at least 16 persons were wounded. Sinn Fein leaders are determined to force Great Britain into putting into effect martial law over the city believing it will help their case politically. British representatives declare they welcome Sinn Fein activities as they bring the conflict to a head making certain it will terminate more quickly. A new form of reprisals was adopted by the British when they rounded up all men of military age in Queenstown, tolled them all into squads and assigned them numbers and dates. The decision was that each squad would be responsible for information regarding any Sinn Fein attack on the Crown forces in that region on the date assigned to them. Punishment for failure to obey the order was not announced but it was hinted that property reprisals would follow.

LEGISLATURE HAS 40 BILLS READY TO ACT ON THIS WEEK

Real Business of Solons Expected To Get Under Way Tonight With First Reading Of Measures.

COAL TAX THOT CERTAIN

HARRISBURG, February 7—The legislature today started into its fifth week with a calendar of 400 bills for consideration. Only one has been finally acted on. It was the State Highway bond bill passed by the senat last week. The house has 275 bills now in the hands of committees and the senate will act on 125, that have appeared during the month.

The calendar in the house tonight is more crowded than it has been thus far in the session. It includes the first reading of more than a dozen bills and action on the important deficiency bill reported out by the appropriations committee. Both Governor Sproul and committee members have taken a hand in reducing the amount of state deficiencies.

Two bills were reported out by the fisheries committee and will be heard in first reading tonight. The American Legion Armistice Day bill will also be heard for a first reading. It was reported out as committed. Committees scheduled to report bills for the calendar this week failed to act were those of Public Health and Sanitation, Centennial Affairs and Manufactures.

First reading on three highway bills will be held tonight as committed from the committee on Public Roads. The committees that have had the bulge of legislative business during the month past are those of Appropriations, Judiciary and Special, Fish and Game, Banks and Banking, Manufactures, Centennial Affairs, Public Roads, Health and Sanitation, Printing and Ways and Means.

Action will also be taken this week on the resolution of Representative Glass, of Philadelphia, for an investigation of the anthracite coal industry for the purpose of learning the cause for the prevailing high price of that kind of coal. The status of the resolution at present is somewhat changed from its original intention. Glass stated at the time the resolution was

Many farmers realize but meager incomes because their business is small. Such men often feel that their farm business is sufficiently large to keep them busy the entire year, when, as a matter of fact, the actual results accomplished represent less than a half year's work, say farm management specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. A large volume of business may be done on a farm of few acres, while only a small business may be conducted on a poorly managed farm of much larger acreage. Without reasonable size of business there is little opportunity for a satisfactory profit in farming.

The Essential Factors.

There are a number of factors which materially affect success in the organization and management of farms. Some are of greater importance than others, some may be disregarded without serious consequences; but as a rule the profits derived from farming depend very largely upon the extent to which certain essential features of organization and management have been adopted and adhered to, say farm management specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Assuming a type of farming adapted to soil, climatic, and labor conditions, and especially to local conditions with reference to markets and market facilities, success is generally dependent upon four important factors: Size of business, yield of crops, returns from live stock, and efficiency of labor.

Many other factors have their influence and must not be overlooked on a given farm. For instance, the wise expenditure of capital is very important. Again, in obtaining a good return from live stock the efficiency in feeding is very important. Farm management studies show, however, that the farmer whose business is efficient in the four factors outlined is usually successful. The farms that excel in none of these respects usually fail. Those deficient in one or two may succeed, but their chances of success are greatly lessened.

In comparing farms with respect to volume of business some of the more important factors to be considered are size of farm, acres in crops, the amount of live stock carried, the amount of capital invested, and amount of labor required in operating the farm. On farms where one enterprise predominates such as a specialized cotton, fruit, or dairy farm, the best measure of size of business may be the acres in cotton, acres in fruit, or number of cows. The amount of labor required in operating the farm may be used to good advantage in comparing farms of different types. Twenty acres of truck crops may, under suitable conditions, equal 200 acres of grain, hay and general live stock, both as to labor required and income received.

Crop yields greatly influence farm profits. Some farmers make fair profits with low yields because some other phase of the farm business is sufficiently developed to offset the poor yields, but it is doubtless true that these same farmers could make more money with higher yields. Profits increase at least until yields are obtained considerably above the average for the region, but beyond this limit very high yields are liable to be obtained at the expense of farm profits.

Quality of Live Stock Important.

On farms where live stock is an important enterprise, the quality of the stock is very important. On a majority of farms, except in the South and certain of the Western states, more of the crops are fed to live stock than are sold direct. On many farms the animals are the market for the crops, hence the production of these is a most important factor in farm profits. The best of corn and hay crops will count for little when fed to animals that make returns below the market prices for these crops. On the other hand, good live stock on the individual farms may not be profitable if not fed and cared for economically.

The exceedingly diverse nature of farm operations makes wide opportunity for inefficiency to enter into their performance. In a factory with modern machinery a man is expected to do a certain amount of work, and in many instances the machine sets the pace for him. Generally the worker on the farm must be his own boss and must set his own pace. He must also work under most adverse weather conditions at certain times. Often a great deal of work must be devoted to things which add little or nothing to the profits of the business. It requires twice as much time for some men as compared with others to do a certain kind of work. Work may also be so organized that a given amount of effort accomplishes more than the average. The efficient use of horse labor is also very important and bears a close relation to size of business. On the one-man farm the horses must necessarily be unemployed every time the farmer finds it necessary to do work not requiring horse labor. On the larger farms the work can be so arranged as to have one man keep the horses busy while others attend to the work where horse labor is not needed.

Inefficiency and Efficiency—Extreme Types but True Ones.

Well-Balanced Farm Profitable.

A well-balanced farm business is nearly always profitable. The farms that are as good or better than the average of their community in all four of the factors here mentioned seldom fail to make a good profit. Thus, if a farm is devoted to a type of farming adopted to its conditions, if it is as good or better than the average in size of business, yield of crops, production of live stock, and efficiency in the use of labor, and is adequately and economically equipped, it is almost certain to be profitable. The weakest factor is the one that needs attention in improving the business. If the quality of the live stock is high, greater improvement in the farm business can usually be obtained by devoting attention to developing the size of the business or sale of cash crops, or increasing labor efficiency, rather than by further improving the quality of live stock.

The Department of Agriculture has recently prepared a bulletin, "A Method of Analyzing the Farm Business," which contains valuable information for farmers who wish to organize their operations on an economic basis. This bulletin and other printed matter on the subject may be had by interested persons free.

Cost of Production

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

THE big price cry from our farmers is that food cannot be produced for less than it costs. This sounds all right at first, but how are we going to know what food really costs?

There are two reasons why farmers will have to keep books. One is that when they demand that speculation be eliminated and that they be paid cost plus profit for their foodstuffs they will have to keep a cost system just the same as other producers and factories must do. Where one man will lose money at the market price another man will make a very satisfactory profit. This is something that the farmers must standardize.

There is another great reason why farmers will also keep books and that is that the government will insist that cost accounts of income and expense must be kept.

There is a standardized book now available at the Agricultural College of South Dakota for this purpose, which can be had at cost. The other universities are also furnishing books at a very nominal price.

All speculation is not done on the exchanges. If the farmer is holding his grain for a higher price he is speculating because the price may go lower. Organized speculation would seem to be of great benefit to the farmer, who can tell the trend of price for months to come, because the rules prevent any ties to the transaction.

DEAR OLD PETE:

Just wound up the one swellest day of my life! Since early this morning, when I got an invitation to visit R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. factories, I've been in the midst of millions of Camel cigarettes.

Man—the happiest idea you or I ever had as to the size of this Reynolds enterprise, or the number of Camels manufactured daily, is simply piker-stuff! Wipe off the slate and start fresh! Why—Pete, it seemed to me like a couple of those cigarette-making machines could keep half the nation smoking Camels steadily—BUT—honest to goodness, there are hundreds of these machines batting out Camels at the rate of 27,000 an hour—EACH!

Pete, you wouldn't have to consult a guide book to know you were in the Camel factories! The atmosphere is charged with that wonderful aroma you get when you open up a deck of Camels! And, you know, old elephant—you've had a trunk full!

As the Camels dropped into the containers I figured the delight each one would supply! And, how Camels mellow, mild body would hit the right spot and how Camels refreshing flavor would cheer up some smoker's jaded appetite! And, each Camel free from any unpleasant cigaretty aftertaste or unpleasant cigaretty odor! And—

Pete—I'll have to lay off and light another Camel! Write you some more soon.

Yours joyously

Shorty.

MRS. SYLVIA FOSTER, of Buffalo, N. Y., who says she wishes she could go into every home and tell how Tanlac completely retored her health after she had lost all hope of ever being well again.

"They had given up all hope of my ever being well again but thanks to Tanlac I am feeling as well now as I ever felt in my life and I only wish I had time to go to every home and tell every sick person about this grand medicine.

"A year ago last January I had a severe attack of influenza which left me in a terrible weakened condition and my appetitie was so poor that I ate little more than enough to keep body and soul together.

"My heart palpitated so dreadfully at times that it seemed like it had stopped altogether and I would think my time had come. I was so weak tht I couldn't go up the steps without holding to the railing. It was impossible for me to do any housework. I was so nervous that I couldn't drink my tea or coffee without spilling it.

"My sleep was restless and broken and I would have smothering spells and would just have to get up and go to the window so I could breathe.

I finally started taking Tanlac on the advice of a friend and before I had finished taking the second bottle my neighbors could tell I was improving right along. Well, it has only taken five bottles to restore my health completely.

"My appetite is just splendid now, my nerves are strong and steady, my housework is a real pleasure and I can sleep like a child at night. In fact, I never felt better in my life than I do now".

The above remarkable statement was made by Mrs. Sylvia Foster, of 206 S. Division St., Buffalo, N. Y., a well-known and highly respected resident of that city.

Tanlac is sold by all leading druggists.

MAN OF TRAVEL EXPERIENCE

Samuel, Adjutant of Legion, Department of Kansas, Haa Seen Much of Broad World.

After traveling over pretty much all of the continents of North America, Europe and Asia, Frank E. Samuel has settled down into a busy life as adjutant of the American Legion, department of Kansas, with headquarters in Topeka.

Samuel was born in Downing, Mo., in 1880. Armed with a college degree in 1912 he started out to see the world. What part of it he missed in civilian pursuits was made up to him when he joined the Three Hundred and Fifty-third infantry regiment of the famous Eighty-ninth division and served in all the battles in which that outfit participated.

Samuel, on his return to civil life, became assistant state adjutant of the Legion in Kansas and was made adjutant in September, 1919. He was recently re-elected for a two-year term.

GENERAL'S WIFE NEW LEADER

Mrs. Clarence Edwards Is Chosen President of Massachusetts Department of Auxiliary.

Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, who commanded the Twenty-sixth division through its training period in the States, in quiet defensive sectors and in its later participation in almost every major offensive of the war, is the idol of thousands of New England members of the American Legion and other former service men.

Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards, his wife, is now placed in a similar position by the mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of these veterans, for Mrs. Edwards was elected president of the Massachusetts department of the women's auxiliary of the American Legion at a recent state convention of that organization.

The newly elected president is a resident of Newton, Mass. She has been active in work for the benefit of New England members of the American Legion and other former service men.

James Titus, of DuBois, spent yesterday with friends here.

Mrs. Rena Knepp spent Sunday at her home in Woodland.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By "Skinney"

The female of the species, ever since Mother Eve's fatal error, has always been called upon to bear more than her fair share of the myriad troubles that beset the world. Lowly Bulgaria is the latest nation or country to emphasize woman's responsibility for trouble and government officials are now holding to account the wives of prominent statesmen and soldiers where it can be proved the wife's influence over the husband resulted in disaster, political or military, to the country.

News dispatches say that despite the fact that Warren G. Harding will not take charge of the official "plum tree" until March 4th almost one month hence—Washington is already filled up with the starved and hungry Republican faithful in the hope of landing something good which leads our poet to remark:

"They're fighting for the offices that
Harding has to fill;
How sad a thing it is that there are many spoilsmen still;
But let's be hoping for the best and
striving to be glad;
Things can't be worse than they have been—they may not be as bad.

Job Was Far From Being Patient

The penetrating shafts of present day pitiless publicity proceed powerfully to puncture many of the fallacies we learned in our youth. We always thought our late friend Job was a patient old cuss, but must confess as we recall our scripture that the following tale hits the nail just about on the head:

"Though through his history we probe
With earnest application,
We always fail to find how Job
Amassed his reputation.
A patient man, it seems to us,
Though all his fortunes crumble,
Should never make a row or fuss
Or curse his luck or grumble.
Job lacked, as far as we can find,
The simplest stoic training.
He kept his troubles on his mind
And always was complaining.

When first he fell in Satan's toils
He roared with indignation;
When suffering a bit from boils
He cursed his generation.
Though kindly prophets gathered
round
To offer the prediction
That shortly would a way be found
To free him from affliction,
He swore that he no longer cared
Upon the earth to languish,
He tore his hair, his breast he bared,
He cried aloud his anguish.

Misfortune made more hard his lot,
But did he laugh and flout it
And bear it meekly? He did not;
He wailed aloud about it.
He reeled off yards of bitter verse
When rougher luck assailed him;
He launched a long pictorial curse
On every blow that [illegible]
Hi[illegible]
A splendid tune to win him,
He turned out great poetic stuff,
But patience wasn't in him!"

The United States in education occupies ninth place, with most of the civilized world ahead of us.

Pennsylvania is today twenty-first on the list of states, educationally speaking. We have within our borders 354,000 illiterates. Georgia has 389,000 illiterates, New York 406,000. Alabama has 352,000. Louisiana has 352,000, Mississippi, 290,000, and Texas, 262,000, Illinois has 168,000, Ohio 124,000, and New Jersey, 141,000.

Even Massachusetts has 141,000 and undertakes partially to solve the problem by depriving them of the right to vote.

Illiteracy alone is responsible for an economic loss to the country of $825,000,000 a year.

Teachers' salaries are so low that "the competent and self-respecting are being driven from their work."

Scores of communities are financially unable to support any schools at all.

These facts were recently pointed out in the United States Congress in a report of the House committee on education, which recommended the passage of the Smith-Towner bill providing for a federal department of education and federal aid to the states as a necessary measure meant to meet the situation.

There is considerable opposition to the Smith-Towner bill on the ground that it would interfere with private and parochial schools, but in its report the committee, of which Representative Fess, Republican, Ohio, is chairman, denies that the bill would give the federal government power to determine courses of study or sanction interference with public or private school management in any state. It adds:

"The idea is fundamentally sound that the nation, the state and the local community should share in the responsibility and the expense of supporting an equalized system of public education."

The House, late Saturday, by an overwhelming majority, overrode President Wilson's veto of the resolution ordering a reduction of the army to 175,000 men. The vote was 271 to 16. It may be a queer way of thinking but according to regular practices it was quite proper for Mr. Wilson to veto the resolution for the reason that not long ago there had been legislation providing for a reorganization of the army on a basis of 280,000 men. Just what Congress expects to come of that reorganization with only 150,000 men is not known. If the resolution passes the Senate we will be in the queer position of the man who erected the frame work for an immense house and then lacked the necessary boards to build up the walls. Perhaps the walls will be supplied after the war clouds gather but that is a little dangerous as we found out after trying it once.

McColl, South Carolina, is credited with a population of 2129. A church survey, announced Saturday, shows that only two men and one boy are not church members, taking twelve years as a minimum age. The women were unanimous.

McColl ought to be a pretty good place to live in, unless the church members there are similar to a lot of them we know hereabouts.

One good thing about that town, there are only two men and a boy who can consistently find fault with those who have a keen sense of their responsibility under God's plan and who have united with a church to help further the work of the Kingdom.

There wouldn't be much room there for the "I am holier than thou" Pharisee. Too much competition. And a fellow couldn't very often get an opportunity to skin somebody who didn't belong to a church although their code may permit them to skin a member of another church. Ours does.

All in all, we imagine McColl is just about like any other town. No doubt the Methodists there dance to jazzy music and play cards for prizes, the Presbyterians put their hope in predestination and faith, the Baptists probably think that one bath in a life time will put them thru the pearly gates and the Catholics probably turn their calendar to the wall on Fridays and neglect confession until they get a good sized pain.

Hats off to McColl anyhow. You have a record that you may well be proud of for it is better to have tried and failed than not to have tried at all. Those who do nothing never make mistakes or lay themselves open to criticism.

That B., R. & P. railway crossing at Bailey's on the Clearfield-Curwensville state road has been a bugaboo ever since the agitation began for the improvement of this road. It was one of the excuses offered every time the proposed project was delayed and once more it rears its hoary old head into the proceedings and we are led to believe that the State Highway Department has allowed this condition to "fiddle along" and nothing has been done toward the solving of this problem. In fact it is stated on very good authority that no contract has been let thus far to cover the improvement thru and around this crossing. If this information is correct it is surely surprising and entirely out of keeping with the usual thorough manner of doing business of the State Highway Department under the present regime.

We were told when the contract for this road was let to Bowler & Anderson some two years ago that the matter of this crossing was a matter for the action of the Public Service Commission, which body was authorized under the law to direct that the crossing be improved in conformity with the permanent improvement of the road leading to it, with the safety of the traveling public in mind. To bring the matter to the attention of the Public Service Commission, it would seem to us is the duty of the State Highway Department, and the proper action should be taken at once.

We understand the engineers' plans call for an underground crossing at this point and suggest that the Clearfield County Good Roads Association and County Commissioner get busy and bring the matter to the attention of Highway Commissioner Sadler at once in order that the crossing may be completed with the remainder of the highway between Curwensville and Clearfield.

THE SURPRISE OF THE 1920 FOREIGN TRADE

The manner, and in some degree, the cause of the surprises of our foreign trade in the calendar year 1920 can now be determined, or at least closely approximated, says a statement by the National City Bank of New York. The enormous increase in imports, which jumped from $3,904,000,000 in 1919 to $5,280,000,000 in 1920 occurred in each of the three great groups, manufacturing materials, foodstuffs and manufactures. Manufacturing materials advanced from $1,675,000, 00 in 1919 to $1,750,000,000 in 1920; foodstuffs from $1,100,000,000 to $1,816,000,000, while manufactures imported jumped from $1,1000,000,000 in 1919 to $1,680,000,000. The increases of the three great groups over 1919 were in manufacturing material, $75,000,000; foodstuffs, $716,000,000, and manufactures, $580,000,000.

The reasons for these phenomenal increases are largely due to the extremely high prices in the early part of 1920, and to the persistent importation in large quantities, irrespective of prices. With raw cotton running up to 50c, 60c and even as high as 69c per pound in August, before the downward movement began, it is not surprising that in raw cotton alone the value of the imports of the 11 months ending with November were $135,000,000 against $60,000,000 in the same period of 1919, and $40,000,000 in the same months of 1918, while the fact that import prices of raw silk reached their water mark of over $12 a pound about the middle of the year, and that the decline in wool and hides did not come until the second half of the year, explains the increase of $75,000,000 in value of raw material imported. The big increase in the value of foodstuffs imported, amounting to $716,000,000 is of course largely to the extreme high price paid for the sugar and coffee in the first half, or two-thirds of the year. The increase of $8,000,000 in manufactures imported occurs largely in luxuries and high grade factory products; an increase of about $10,000,000 in art works; $15,000,000 in laces; nearly $100,000,00 in cotton goods; $20,000,000 in furs; $65,000,000 in manufactures of fibers; $30,000,000 in silk manufactures, and $40,000,000 in woolen manufactures.

On the export side, the chief surprises were the fall off in foodstuffs, and the big increase in manufactures exported. Manufacturing material, to be sure, shows an increase of $260,000,000 over the same months of last year, due largely to the high prices of export cotton in the first half of the year, the prices having ranged up to 54c a pound until past the middle of the year before they tobogganed to half that figure in the closing part of the year. Foodstuffs exported show a tremendous fall-off, from $2,640,000,000 in 1919 to $2,135,000,000 in 1920, a drop of a little more than $500,000,000, this decline occurring chiefly in meat and dairy products, and apparently due to the unwillingness or inability of our chief customer for meats, Europe, to longer pay the high prices which persisted until the closing months of the year.

The biggest and most gratifying of the year's surprises is the fact that manufactures exported made a new high record, having totaled $4,166,000,000 against $3,486,000,000 in 1919, and $1,099,000,000 in the year immediately preceding the war, a gain of $677,000,000 over last year, and $3,064,000,000 over the fiscal year 1914. This big increase in our 1920 exports of manufactures, in the face of a fall-off in exports of food, and but a slight gain in those of raw material, is especially gratifying, as a large proportion of this increase occurs in articles of daily and prime necessity; cotton goods alone, an increase of $131,000,000 over 1919; automobiles an increase of $138,000,000; mineral oils $163,000,000 increase; chemicals $35,000,000; rubber manufactures $30,000,000; manufactures of wood $50,000,000, and iron and steel manufactures about $00,000,000, all these advances in value being due to corresponding increases in quantities exported. Manufactures formed 52 per cent of the domestic exports in 1920 as against 11 per cent in 1914.

Another striking feature of the year's record was the bing increase in exports to all the non-manufacturing world, even in the closing month of the year, in which a falloff had been predicted. Exports to South America increased 41 per cent in the full year, and 116 per cent in December; those to Asia, exclusive of manufacturing Japan, increased 18 per cent in the full year and 83 per cent in December; those to Africa advanced 69 per cent in the year, and over 100 per cent in December; to Oceania, 38 per cent gain in the full year and 150 per cent in December, and to North America, other than the United States, an increase of practically 50 per cent in the full year, and 20 per cent in December, while to Europe the fall-off was 10 per cent for the full year, and 10 per cent in December.

TUBERCULOSIS OF CHICKENS

Affected Fowls Squat in Secluded Places and Gradually Become Quite Emaciated.

Tuberculosis of chickens is quite common and is caused by a type of tubercle bacillus which has become adapted to birds. Transmission of tuberculosis from poultry to mammals, including man, is rare except in case of hogs. Hogs contract tuberculosis from poultry, and are more susceptible to cattle tuberculosis than are cattle themselves. Chickens, when affected, squat in secluded places and gradually become emaciated. In dressing a diseased chicken the breast muscles are usually wasted and the lesions are most likely to be found in the liver, spleen and intestines. Cheesy masses in any of these organs is always suspicious. The disease may be detected by means of the intradermal tuberculin test.—George H. Glover, Colorado Agricultural College.

LEGION TEAM TAKES APOLLO TEAM INTO CAMP TO VICTORY

Th American Legion basket ball team took the Apollo Club of Houtzdale into camp Saturday evening by the score of 33 to 27. The first half ended 19—13 with Clearfield leading the coal barons.

The game was very fast and rough-with emphasis on the rough stuff. The Houtzdaler's being used to playing National rules were constantly kicking about the fouls being called. However the game was very exciting.

For Clearfield, Way Powell played a stellar game at forward, caging four field goals. Clark Mitchell dropped in three double-deckers and shot 1 fouls out of 9 tries Johnson also threw three fields goals and 9 fouls out of 20.

Houtzdale's floor work and passing was exceptionaly good but they were unable to penetrate the defensive work of the Legionnares. Captain Jimmy Mitchell and Robinson at guard held their opponent forwards so close that they were forced to shoot at long range.

The Apollo Club have won 10 out of 14 games so far this season and claim the championship of Central Penna. and so the Legion men are pleased to dispute this title

JUST HALF A CENTURY NOTE

Amount Handed Over by Montana Official to Neighbor Who Was Not "Up to Date."

The approach of winter reminds Attorney Peter Breen of years ago, when he was county attorney, and he used to travel behind a fast horse named for his office. Then he got the automobile bug and bought a machine. He was on his way to his ranch when he came up with one of his neighbors who was driving his old-fashioned team.

"Ah why don't you get up to date?" asked Breen. The rancher never answered, and the automobile sped on.

Half a mile farther on the road something went wrong with the machinery and the thing slipped into a ditch.

Along came the rancher and his team. It was snowing and the prospects of a night out in a ditch looked favorable.

"Say, pull me out and haul me to my place," said Breen.

"Fifty dollars," said the rancher.

Pete nearly collapsed. It began snowing harder.

Peter paid the fifty.—Anaconda Standard.

THE LEFTOVER PROBLEM.

At this season of the year when the gathering of the clans means a variety of leftovers, it is necessary that the housewife should put extra thought on how to serve them attractively.

One may prepare croquettes, souffles, timbals, omelets, filling for patty shells or pastry cases, chicken pie from leftover chicken; with celery and nuts as salad, with celery and peas as salad, with celery, apples and nuts as salad, creamed on toast, rolled in a biscuit mixture baked and served with chicken gravy, creamed with a border of rice, as a hot chicken sandwich, a club sandwich, chicken soup and as a filling for rice or potato croquettes. Turkey, goose or duck leftovers may be served in nearly all of these ways equally as well.

If one has a peach or two or three left from a can they may be used in various dishes as a garnish. Prepare an ordinary cornstarch pudding, using two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, with three of sugar and one and one-half cupfuls of milk, a pinch of salt; cook until smooth and thick and pour into small dishes for serving. When cold place half a peach hollow side up on the mold of pudding, which, by the way, is flavored with a few drops of almond just as it is taken from the fire. Serve with a spoonful of whipped cream or with sugar and cream. Plain cooked rice may be served with such a garnish. If there is but a peach or two they may be cut in dice, added to a diced apple and twice as much celery, mixed with a little salad dressing and served as a salad.

Another dessert which may be made from a few peaches or pears is the following: Take sponge cake cut in rounds, on each place a few spoonfuls of the peach sauce or strup, and place a peach hollow side up and sprinkle with nuts. Cover with whipped cream and serve. Pears may be served in the same way.

Sour Cream Filling for Cake.—Take one cupful each of sugar (brown), sour cream and nuts. Cook until thick. Raisins may be used instead of the nuts.

SHINE AT STUDY AND WORK

Miss Mabel Embery and Miss Marian Hunt Polish Shoes to Aid Wilson College Endowment Fund.

"HAVE A SHINE, MISS?"

A "SHINING EXAMPLE" of Loyal co-Ede student is Miss Mabel Embery of Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pa., who polishes shoes of acquaintances to add to her contribution to the $500,000 endowment fund which her Alma Mater is raising. Miss Embery, who shines in her scholastic work and polishes in her fund-raising task, had no previous experience in the leather-brightening line before she elected to sacrifice her leisure hours for a good cause. She is the daughter of Joseph R. Embery, a lawyer with offices in the Real Estate Trust Building, Philadelphia, and home at No. 1221 Harrison street, Frankfort, Pa.

Nothing so common as the ordinary shoe-polisher's outfit does for shining the footgear of the Wilson College students and faculty. Miss Embery and Miss Marian Hunt, of Williamsport, her working partner, assembled kits consisting of old tooth-brushes, clothes-brushes and soft felt pennants of rival institutions. In addition to shining a half-dozen pairs of shoes nightly, the two industrious young women read the character of their customers from their shoes.

Run-down heels indicate slovenliness, say the shoe experts. The French heel signifies the butterfly type of girl, while the low-heel oxford is the symbol of common sense, —and, the character readers add, is favored by the majority of the Wilson College students.

The transformation of two plucky collegians into shoe-shiners dates back to the beginning of the present term, when the alumnae, following Wilson College's Golden Jubilee, enlisted all the classes in the task of raising half-a-million for the institution. In addition to contributing their allowances, the students cast about for additional means of earning money for the fund.

Other students having chosen clothes mending, pressing, fudge-making and the like, Miss Embery did not get her inspiration until she went to town for a shine, observed the technique of the polisher and launched her new trade. Shoes rained in on her and all went well until a pair of patent leathers arrived for shining. Miss Embery and Miss Hunt had no preparation for patent leathers, but they solved it. They used cold cream.

How Do You Get That Way?

A young woman writes to inquire how to tell when she is in love and when it's the weather. She says she cannot always differentiate between the depression that comes from the gloom and the rain, and the tickling of the heart. The two moods are identical so far as she is able to analyze them.—Berkshire Eagle.

Speed May Overcome Weight.

Professor Edward V. Huntington of Harvard university, showed by an elaborate mass of figures printed in Science that a man on a train moving along the equator westward at 18,700 miles an hour or eastward at 16,700 miles an hour would weigh nothing, as measured by an observer on the train.

I wish you could have walked down to the Piccola Marina with me yesterday. It is down one of those wonderful roads hewn out of the side of the cliff, which one grows used to here, and I came back up the old steps. Such views! HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Don't Stay Gray.. Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea and Sulphur

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients all ready to use at a very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful. This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Are you disregarding the Danger Signal?

WHAT would you think of an engineer who deliberately ran past a semaphore that showed "Danger Ahead"?

Yet we humans—the engineers of our lives—often pay no attention to the signs of endangered health.

One of the most important of warning signals is a cough. It should not be neglected for a single day. At the first sign of its appearance get

It will quickly relieve the hacking, tickling, irritating sensation. It tends to prevent spasms of exhausting coughing, and to assist in a quick recovery of health in chest and throat.

Monster Sharks.

Inhabiting the deep are two gigantic sharks, either one of which may reach a length of 40 feet. The basking shark is found in northern seas, occasionally straying southward to our coasts, and the whale shark seems to have its principal habitat in the Indian ocean, though stragglers have turned up as far away as the shores of Florida. One such mounted is on exhibition at Miami and will repay a visit to anyone who chances to be in that vicinity.

Kerosene and Coal.

Kerosene contains more heating energy than coal when considered on a weight basis. A pound of kerosene contains about 19,000 heat units, whereas a pound of high-grade coal contains about 15,000. The cost of the various fuels for heating purposes depends largely upon the relative supply.

Tracing Origin of Billiards.

Billiards is believed by some to have been brought from the east by the Crusaders, while others claim an English origin for it and find it allied to the game of bowls. Still others assert that the French developed it from an ancient German game. It seems pretty certain that the first person to give form and rule to the game was an artist named Henrique Devigne, who lived in the reign of Charles IX. One writer sees in billiards the ancient game of pallemaille played on a table instead of on the ground, and this is a reasonable assumption.

Clothes and Cleanliness.

It is true that clothes were more picturesque in past ages and that men as well as women gloried in gorgeous apparel. The nobleman was as fond as his "ladye love" of rich fabrics and ruffles, and the clasp that held his floating plume to his velvet hat flashed with real gems. But here is where civilization takes a hand. Compare the cleanliness of the men of the past with those of the present. In the Sixteenth century French gentlemen changed their linen once in two weeks, and even at that were deemed recklessly extravagant by the English for so doing.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

CURWENSVILLE

The Editorial in The Progress Friday evening commenting on an item relative to a new rule in vogue at the public schools, caused many an old timer who read it, grin broadly and recall his boyhood school days, when it took a muscular individual to handle the tough mountaineer lads in this section. As one, who is now past years, said Saturday, a man in my days was not employed for the book knowledge he had, but for his qualification he posessed as a strong arm man with a birch almost as large as a lash pole. Those who attended skule under the tution of old Peter Hoover and Squire Evans, can feel their flesh creep yet, thinking of the time their hide was tanned by either one of those pedegogues. The most fun we had was the barring out of the "Skule Master" in order to make him promise to treat the scholars at a certain time before the term ended. Sometimes we won out and sometimes out and sometimes our hides had to bear the brunt of our indiscretion.

John Way, who is located in Indiana County, was in Curwensville a few days, the latter part of last week

Howard McClosky, who spent several months in Clearfield hospital under medical treatment, came home last week. His health is somewhat improved, but his recovery is very slow, an dhe will not be able to resume his usual labor before next spring.

Miss Mary Lucas, who has been stopping with relatives in Curwensville for some time, has returned to her home at Morgantown, W. Va. She was highly pleased with the cordial treatment accorded her by the people of this town during her stay.

A pre-Lent dance will be held in the American Legion rooms this evening. Music will be furnished by Brown's Banjo orchestra.

C. S. Reed has been out of town for several days looking after some important business.

About half a dozen tannery men have gone to Ridgway to work in the big tannery there until the tannery here resumes operation.

The Abrino orchestra will soon be in shape to play public engagements. It has already furnished music for several entertainments and was well received.

Gordon Bloom, who resides in Philadelphia, came to Curwensvile the latter part of last week on receipt of a telegram announcing the death of his father, Harvey Bloom, whose funeral was held from J. L. Smith's undertaking rooms last Saturday morning, the body being taken to the Bloomington cemetery. Mr. Bloom is survived by two brothers and two sisters.

schools, and we urge the prompt adoption of the new Thrift Federal Reserve District, but to December 1st, 1920, only 22 of these schools have reported the savings of their pupils amounting to $362.11. Our county superintendent of schools, W. P. Trostle, has requested all teachers not only to enroll their schools but also to report all savings monthly to the department, using for that purpose the franked report cards in their possession.

Orvis R Gulich, our Assistant post master, issued a statement today to the effect that during the month of January there was sold at the Clearfield Post Office one $5.00 Savings Stamp, 109 Thrift stamps, and 30 $100 00 Treasury Savings Certificates.

A Kiss in The Dark

By RALPH HAMILTON

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

Suddenly the electric light went out. There was a series of faint exclamations from the six young ladies, a rustling among young men of the same number, accompanied by prolonged "Ohs!" and "Ahs!" Then a suspicious but familiar sound, brief tut snappy, suggested the distinct echo of a kiss. The young ladies giggled hysterically, the young men uttered gloating sighs.

"Horrid!"

"Who is the guilty one?"

The erratic lights of Woodville came on again. This freak of shut-off power was a common one in the town, but the variation and excitement aroused by the present episode gave a zest to curiosity and excitement. Everybody looked challengingly at everybody else. The over-sensitive appeared embarrassed, the girls bit their lips and the men looked preternaturally arch and wise. The hostess, Millie Deane, was fluttered, but that was fairly natural, for most of the group was centered about her. Next to her sat her cousin, Ruth Purcell, serene and smiling. Next to her was Robert Thurston, but who would suspect either of those as participants in stolen bliss? For Ruth was twenty-six as against grades down to juvenility among the others, and Thurston was prim, shy and sedate on all occasions.

The circumstance passed into obscurity, though still voted mysterious, and there was infinite chattering and suspicion. The party broke up at length and the cousins were alone. It was then that Millie began to betray agitation and excitement.

"Ruth," she announced, but whether indignant or simply puzzled she did not betray, "I was the recipient of that perplexing kiss!"

"Yes, dear," nodded Ruth, all smiles, "and it was I who bestowed it," and Millie actually pouted and looked disappointed.

"You!" she exclaimed, half believing.

"Yes. Oh, Millie! I was so proud of you because you looked so beautiful, I could not restrain the tribute to your loveliness. Thanks for the return kiss in the dark."

"The—what!" uttered Millie volubly.

"I touched you on the cheek, and you responded with a kiss right on the lips, and—"

"I never!" dissented Millie with gentle force. "I was so taken aback I nearly screamed. Why! what is the matter?"

Ruth sat aghast. She believed Millie, and the revelation startled and then stunned her. She could feel that warm pressure yet on her lips. Who had dared! Ruth was not insensible to admiration or the tribute of attention and respect, but she resented the liberty some one had taken for, as she got past girlhood, she had been growing duly circumspect. Millie indulged in a boisterous burst of merriment.

"Good! Good! You are the victim!" she rallied Ruth. "And who knows but you invited it? You took such delight in teasing me by not divulging the truth for a whole hour, that I can pay you back. You've told the girls a dozen times in the past year that you were practically unkissable, having decided to live and die an old maid. Oh, tut, tut, you deceiver! Come, who was the subtle, secret lover who stole his toll amid the darkness?"

"I am glad that Blake Ashton was not present," cogitated Millie. "The way I acted might have made him think I was the victim of the kiss, and he is so jealous."

For several days after the episode of the stolen kiss Ruth was restless and at times agitated, as the watchful Millie observed. Neither referred to the circumstance of the evening of the party, but Millie was full of it when her fiance returned.

"And, oh! Blake; I've been studying Ruth, and although she says nothing I am sure that mysterious kiss has stirred her up strangely. It is like a journey into the realm of romance for her, after all these years, and, oh, Blake! I know who kissed her."

"You do!" exclaimed Blake in surprise "Have you told Ruth?"

"Oh, dear, no! For one reason, I wanted to consult you first."

"Who was it?"

"Robert Thurston."

"Oh, impossible!" cried Blake definitely. "Why, I've often suspected that he liked Ruth, but he is too shy and unloverlike to ever tell her so."

"Well, I want to make him do just that, dear; and I want you to help. We are so happy ourselves, why not try to urge two lone, longing souls into the same paradise? Don't you see that Robert probably could not resist a mighty impulse, encouraged by the darkness Why, I know it was him, because I noticed on Ruth's shoulder two loose petals from the rose Robert wore in his buttonhole, Press him close, Blake, and get him to confess. Then—"

The mischief-eyed little sylph materialized that "then" when the confession was gained. She brought Ruth and Robert together more than once during the ensuing month. By gradations Ruth was enlightened as to the identity of her bold kiss burglar, but by that time she was ready to be kissed again, for dawning love had paved the way

WHETHER they are made of satin or taffeta, many of the new afternoon frocks appear to exist with a single ambition, and that is to set forth one of the many ingenious ways in which narrow ribbons may be used as an embellishment for them Designers appear to have discovered in ribbon trimmings a new world to conquer and they are busily exploring it Nothing seems to suit quite so well the character of taffeta frocks as the unpretentious, pretty ribbon fancies It is in the nature of things that they should replace embroideries and braidings

Among the afternoon frocks made ready for spring appears the simple and fascinating model shown in the picture. A glance reveals that it has not discarded the plain bodice elbow sleeves of many taffeta frocks and that it approves the new waist emphasis, for it has a long tunic full one, which is bordered with rows and scrolls of narrow ribbon stitched along the edge and sewed down to the silk There is a belt of taffeta-ribbon French fold and the sleeves are prettily finished with the shirred ribbon, which in this case is in the same color as the dress.

Some of the new taffeta or satin afternoon frocks have bodices of georgette crepe in a contrasting color, trimmed with narrow frilled ribbon like the skirt in color The ribbon is used to finish edges in borders in little loops sewed over the crepe and in lacing under short tufts set close together Frocks of dark taffeta have the full skirts of fabric finished with a wide border in lattice work made of ribbon stitched down on both edges Very narrow fluted or pinked frill in bright colors edges the bottom of taffeta and for both skirts and bodices, ribbon trimmers find many points of setting first placed before the house that it would extend to the entire coal industry and was not intended as a discriminatory measure against the anthracite people. The resolution in this form appeared almost certain to be defeated. It was sent to the Committee on Judiciary Special, of which Glass is chairman and there the matter was threshed out with the result that now, if the resolution carries, it will confine its investigation to the anthracite fields. It is almost certain to be supported by the bituminous coal men as the result of this move.

Several other important bills are to be acted on tonight or Tuesday in the House. Among them is the [illegible] authorizing a tax on bill boards. This is the fourth revenue source proposed by Governor Sproul in his message to the legislature. He had suggested this means in case his other proposals fell flat. It is believed, however, that he has secured the support of his recommendation to tax coal and distribute the revenue on a 60-40 basis to the state, the community and a general fund. It is not known who will back the bill but it is generally believed the bill will be introduced shortly.

The state highway bill passed by the Senate last week is also before the House this week. Whether it will be reached in the already crowded calendar before the house and various committees during the three days the house will be in session remains to be seen. The bill was opposed by several of the "irreconcilables" in the senate and was objected to on the floor by Senator Bar r,Pittsburgh. He said the 6 per cent. interest rate called for is too high. About $50,000,000 will be raised by these bonds, it is estimated.

PILLAR OF FIRE RELIGIOUS RITES SAID TO BE JAZZY

Mrs. Alma White, stalwart founder of the "Pillar of Fire" a religious organization of Nation-wide scope, with headquarters in Bound Brook, N. J., has instuted divorce proceedings in the Court of Chauncery against the Rev. Kent White, formerly a Methodist clergyman. The only "Bishop" of her sex in Chrristendom charges her husband with desertion.

The Pillar of Fire was organized in Denver in 1901. It was first incorporated in Colorado and later in New Jersey. It was after the "Bishop's" marriage to the Methodist minister that she first tookup the evangelistic work which later resolved itself into the present organization of which she is head. Her husband at one time was connected with the movement, but later withdraw and lived in England.

In speaking of the Pillar of Fire in connection with its story of Mrs. White's suit, the New York World says. The manifestation of "religion" as practised by the Pillar of Fire devotees consists in bends , wriggles, crowls, dips, hops, nad jumps. They literally "shimmey" their way in kingdom come. During a service in their temple the entire congregation arises and the holy hop is on. They cavort up and down theaisle, scorning such minor hazards as tables, chairs and pew backs.

The defendant in the present action has been described as a "plain little man who never jumped or danced and who sang as if it hurt him."

Mrs. White is double her husband in height, weight and capacity for jubilation.

In Bound Bok it is said that Mr. White became a Pillar of Fire devotee because his wife told him to do so. Their son, Arthur, joined hisparents in the organization after he found out his regular Methodist pastor chewed tobacco.

Arthur knew that was wrong.

ROCKEFELLER SAYS HE WOULD LIKE TO MEET MR. HARDING

By Raymond Clapper

(Copyright 1921 by United Press)

Ormond Beach, Fla., Feb. 7.—John D. Rockefeller today told me that he would like to meet President-elect Harding. He expressed great interest in the personality and travels of the next president.

"Is Mr. Harding here?" Rockefeller asked, manifesting immediate interest when told that I was one of the newspaper men with the president elect's party. Being told that Harding probably would arrive later, Rockefeller said, "I hope to se him. I have never met Mr. Harding."

There was a possibility that Rockefeler and Harding would meet on the golf links here. I found Rockefeller near the modest cottage in which he lives in seclusion. He has just returned from a mile walk with a step that semed spry. He is 86 and his eyes were bright and piercing. His conversation showed an active and alert mind. He wore a black frock coat, a straw hat and a gold headed cane was under his arm. He didn't lean on it. He used it as a swagger stick.

During the conversation Rockefeller spoke to a woman soloist from the Baptist church which he attends. "You sang well this morning," he told her.

"Did you hear her and the sermon. You ought to have heard the sermon." He placed the emphasis on the "you" and smiled.

Starting Slips.

More house plants are grown from slips than from seeds. To do this take a branch half ripe and cut a slit three inches long. Take off all the leaves except the upper two and root it well in wet sand several inches thick, putting one and one-half inches of the slip under the sand. Keep this thoroughly moist. When the roots begin to grow put your plant, with its sand, into a pot provided with other soil. Some slips, such as oleander and ivy, will root in water.

Monarch's Mummy Finally at Rest.

The mummy of the celebrated Egyptian king, Rameses II. reposes in the Egyptian museum in Cairo. The mummy was first interred at Bibanet-Muluk and was subsequently concealed from grave robbers in the shaft at Deir-el-Bebri, where it was found in 1881, and later removed to the museum mentioned.

Girls Traveled Far in Wilderness.

Down the wild and ragged east shoreline of Lake Winnipeg, Manitoba, where not a farm nor a settlement breaks the desolation, two young women of eastern Canada recently rowed 200 miles in an open boat, taking a month for the trip and making their own camp every night. The collection of fossils, in which the region is rich, was the object of the remarkable journey. A lone Indian was the only human being sighted in the entire distance. The daring voyagers were deposited by a steamer at the mouth of the Berens river, about midway of the lake, and from that point were wholly dependent upon their own resources. — Popular Mechanics Magazine.

at the factory

No tearing up. No back-breaking, scraping or sandpapering. No waiting two weeks for varnish to dry. Cromar nails right over your worn soft wood floors. A day to a room—less trouble than papering your walls. Besides, if you can drive a nail, you can lay your own Oak Flooring.

Filled, varnished, polished and waxed by a patented method that actually makes it cost less than good carpets. Yet Cromar is more beautifully finished than any expert could possibly do the work by hand—and it lasts a life time. Ask for booklet.

A Noble Language.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL
Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits.

MRS. R. B. BRUBAKER DIED SUDDENLY ON SATURDAY EVENING

Mrs. Anna H., beloved wife of Randall B. Brubaker, died suddenly at the Clearfield Hospital Saturday night about 11 o'clock. The deceased was a surgical patient at the hospital, having undergone an operation some two weeks ago. She was getting along finely and expected to be able to go to her home on Sunday. She was taken suddenly and very seriously ill. Everything possible was done to relieve her but it was unavailing. Death was due to a pulmonary throm bosis or embolism.

Mrs. Brubaker was of the finest type of Christian womanhood and took a great interest in church work. During the few short years of her residence in Clearfield she endeared herself to a large circle of warm and admiring friends, to whom news of her sudden taking away was indeed a sad and depressing shock, and her sorowing husband has the sympathy of the community in his bereavement.

Funeral services conducted by the Revs. E. C. Reeve, of the Presbyterian, and W. W. Hartman, of Trinity Methodist church, were held at her late home on West Locust street at 10 o'clock this morning and the body taken to Pittsburgh on the 1:10 o'clock Pennsylvania train, where the funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of her sister, Mrs. Wiliam H. Jones, 1123 Greenfield avenue. Interment will be made in Homestead cemetery.

COLORED MAN WHO SHOT AT HIS WIFE ARRESTED TODAY

Ralph Leggs, the East End colored man who used his wife as a target Saturday mornnig and raised quite a rumpus down in the Wrigley addition, was arrested by the state police in a shanty at the Sewer Pipe works about 12:30 o'clock today.

Leggs failed to shoot his wife, although he tried it several times, but did bounce several household articles off her head and face before escaping to the woods. The state police had chased him to the woods along Clearfield creek and had been on his trail since.

Leggs was landed in jail and will likely be given a hearing tomorrow.

DO YOU KNOW WHAT IS THE MATTER?

When You Feel Out of Sorts and See Things with a Dull Eye

LOOK TO YOUR BLOOD

Pale Complexions, Languid Feelings, Lowered Vitality, Need More Red Blood Take Pepto-Mangan

So many people spend week after week feeling down and out. They never stop to think that something really is the matter. They satisfy thmselves by saying, "Oh, I'm not sick. I'll be all right tomorrow."

And tomorrow comes again and again. Still they feel depressed and languid, scarcely able to get around.

If you don't feel like yourself, you are not yourself. If you are weak and pale, your blood needs strengthening. You should know about Pepto-Mangan, that famous blood tonic. Physicians recommend it and prescribe it because it contains just the ingredients needed to make red blood. It renews your energy, puts you where you ought to be. Begin with it today. Get the tablets if they will be more convenient to take than the liquid. Both have the same medicinal properties. But be sure you get the genuine Pepto-Mangan. Ask for "Gude's" and be sure that the full name, Gude's Pepto-Mangan," is on the package. Adv.
